Bankers Group Asks War Debts Revision

SEES ACTION AS STEP TO RETURN OF PROSPERITY

Report Hits at Political Differences Between Germany and Neighbors

"LOSE NO TIME," PLEA
End of Disputes Would Clear Way for "Good Times" for All Nations.

Basel, Switzerland — (AP) — A recommendation that the entire structure of inter-governmental war debts and German reparations be revised as the first step toward the return of world prosperity was made here today by the Wiggins bankers committee.

The committee was set up by the Bank for International Settlements at the behest of the seven-power conference in London to investigate Germany's credit needs. It is headed by Albert H. Wiggins, of New York, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, and is composed of the representatives of the ten leading banking nations in the world.

Their report criticized political differences existing between Germany and her European neighbors and urged that current disputes be cleaned up in order that "good times" might again prevail in all nations.

Germany's reparations payments were assessed as an immense obstacle to the peaceful, economic progress of the world and the great powers were advised to "lose no time" in revising the schedule of international payments.

"We therefore conclude," the report said, "by urging most earnestly upon all governments concerned that they lose no time in taking the necessary measures for bringing about such conditions as will allow financial operations to bring to Germany and thereby to the world, sorely needed assistance."

Need Mutual Confidence

"We think it essential that before the period of prolongation of credits recommended by the London conference comes to an end that the governments concerned should give to the world the assurance that international political relations are established on a basis of mutual confidence, which is the sine qua non of economic recovery, and that international payments be made by Germany will not be such as to imperil the maintenance of her financial stability."

The recommendation came from leading bankers of the United States and France, heretofore outstanding opponents of such revision.

"Until relations between Germany and other European powers are firmly established on the basis of sympathetic cooperation and mutual confidence," the report said, "and an important source of difficulty is thereby removed, there can be no assurance of continued and peaceful economic progress."

"The second obstacle relates to the external obligations of Germany. So long as these obligations, both private and public, are such as to involve either a continue increase in the snowball of Germany's foreign debts or, alternatively, a disproportionate between her imports and exports on such a scale as to threaten the economic prosperity of every country, the investor is not likely to regard the situation as stable or permanent."

A committee representing Germany's creditor nations, meeting alongside the Wiggins group, agreed to recommend to their central banks:

FOUR DIE IN CRASH

Warsaw, Poland — (AP) — Four student aviators were burned to death today when an army training plane crashed in flames near the town of Bzow.

French Lick, Ind. — (AP) — Martin H. Carmody, an attorney of Grand Rapids, Mich., today was elected for his third consecutive term as supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus at the forty-ninth annual convention of the supreme council of the order.

There was no opposition and the Grand Rapids man was elected by acclamation. All other officers of the order also were re-elected. They were: John F. Martin, Green Bay, Wis., deputy supreme knight; William J. McGinley, New Haven, Conn., supreme secretary; D. J. Calkins, Washington, supreme treasurer; Luke E. St. Louis, supreme advocate; The Rev. J. J. McGinley, Bridgeport, Conn., supreme chaplain; Dr. Edward W. Faher, St. Paul, supreme physician and David F. Supple, San Francisco, supreme warren.

FIVE MORE VICTIMS CLAIMED BY FLOOD

Mexico City — (AP) — Floods and storms, which during the last month have taken numerous lives and caused much property damage in Mexico, added five victims to their toll yesterday when Yuriria lake, in the state of Guanajuato, overflowed and inundated a large farming district near the town of Jara.

Dr. Dawson, River Falls, Heads Legion

Chippewa Falls — (AP) — Dr. Charles A. Dawson, River Falls, was unanimously elected department commander of the Wisconsin American legion at the business session of the state convention here today.

Mrs. R. D. Nauth, Kiel, Wis., was elected president of the Badger Legion auxiliary to succeed Mrs. Frank A. Noll, Marshfield.

Other auxiliary officers elected were:

Mrs. John C. Coe, Barron, first vice president; Mrs. Harrison L. Garner, Madison, second vice president; Mrs. L. J. Manske, New London, treasurer; Mrs. Grace McDonald, Ashland, chaplain, and Mrs. Herbert Schulte, Sheboygan, historian.

Dr. Dawson succeeds Col. Roy F. Farrand. The expected fight over the choice of a department commander did not materialize.

The convention decided to award the 1931 meeting to Superior in the event the Minnesota State legion holds its convention across the state line at Duluth. Otherwise, the convention will go to La Crosse at the discretion of the Wisconsin executive committee which will make a final decision on the convention city.

The following vice commanders were elected:

John W. Campbell, Milwaukee; Carl Rhodes, Hartford; George E. Bass, Ladysmith, and Dr. Melvin Bonnell, New London.

William J. Demarest, Appleton, and Frank J. Schulman, Washburn, were chosen masters-at-arms, and the Rev. Michael McKenough of St. Norbert college, DePere, was elected chaplain.

One of the scheduled high spots of the day's program, a fete arranged for Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, around the world fliers, was cancelled.

The fliers cycled the Northern Wisconsin State Fair ground where they were to land before the convention crowd and then pulled away, landing at the Chippewa Falls airport, two miles from the city.

Roy L. Brecke, convention chairman, said the fliers had refused to go to the state fair field where they were to land according to contract, "because there was not a larger crowd on hand."

Local aviators said a landing at the fair park might be hazardous.

Nether Post nor Gatty would consent to being taken by automobile to the park, Brecke said, and refused to greet the crowd.

A banquet planned for them to follow was called off and the fliers, arriving here from Ionia, Mich., took off shortly after arrival for an unannounced destination.

Brecke said their manager announced "the boys were hurt deep in their hearts because the crowd was small."

Neesh won the special award for citizens military training; Beaver Dam, child safety; La Crosse, aviation; Menomonie, Americanization; Kenosha, marksmanship, and Fond du Lac, service.

The Milwaukee Electric post won first place in the band contests last night. Waukegan was second, and Kenosha third. In the drum corps contests, La Crosse was first, Superior second, and Menomonie third.

Melvin Olson, La Crosse, was winner of the drum majors strutting competition. Others finished in the following order: A. V. Gilbertson, Rhinelander; George Keller, Menomonie, and W. Farron, Ashland.

The Appleton post was awarded a $50 prize for the best float in yesterday's parade. The float depicted a battlefield scene with soldiers in position at a machine gun nest.

CARMODY REELECTED CHIEFTAIN OF K. OF C.

French Lick, Ind. — (AP) — Martin H. Carmody, an attorney of Grand Rapids, Mich., today was elected for his third consecutive term as supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus at the forty-ninth annual convention of the supreme council of the order.

There was no opposition and the Grand Rapids man was elected by acclamation. All other officers of the order also were re-elected. They were: John F. Martin, Green Bay, Wis., deputy supreme knight; William J. McGinley, New Haven, Conn., supreme secretary; D. J. Calkins, Washington, supreme treasurer; Luke E. St. Louis, supreme advocate; The Rev. LINDY TWICE FORCED DOWN ON SEA FLIGHT

Couple Spends Night Afloat in Plane Off Uninhabited Island

Nemuro, Japan — (AP) — Twice forced down in attempting to fly the 397 miles from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, to Nemuro, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh apparently were spending tonight afloat in their plane on the sheltered side of a forbidding and uninhabited island which swirl powerful ocean currents.

They landed on the lee side of Ketoi island at 4:45 p. m., Tokio time, today (2:45 a. m., E. S. T.) after flying over the central portion of the Kurile island chain trying to avoid a big fog bank which suddenly loomed ahead of them a little more than half way to Nemuro.

Messages to Ochiishi wireless station here told how they maneuvered more than an hour trying to feel their way through the fog bank to Muroran bay, Shimushu island, and finally came down through a hole in the fog 15 miles distant at Ketoi.

There they faced the problem of spending the night afloat on the strong currents which even sturdy ships approach with caution, or the alternative of attempting to reach shore and camping on a strip of land to which only the hairy Ainu, a primitive race of hunters and fishermen, lay claim.

The Ochiishi station said the Lindberghs were going to start for Nemuro early tomorrow, weather permitting.

QUESTION SUSPECT IN WISCONSIN HOLDUPS

Racine — (AP) — Edward LeSalve, 27, Dwight, Ill., was held in the county jail here today while authorities checked his recent activity in this vicinity and at Burlington, Wis., where he was picked up on suspicion last night.

Sheriff John Anderson said the prisoner confessed participation in a number of filling station robberies, declaring he was the "advance agent" for groups of robbers operating out of Chicago. He was taken into custody while loitering in the vicinity of a Burlington oil station.

The sheriff also said LeSalve admitted he had instructions to study possibilities of burglarizing banks at East Troy and Jefferson. Local authorities were skeptical but asked Chicago police to investigate.

2 DETROIT AVIATORS LAND PLANE IN CANADA

Goderich, Ont. — (AP) — The two Detroit aviators, Edwin Preston and Robert Collinson, landed here last night. Cutting short the projected first leg of their flight over the northern route to Copenhagen, Denmark, to map out an air mail route, Preston and Collinson had intended to fly to Sudbury.

The fliers are following the route to Copenhagen over which Parker Cramer started a few weeks ago and on which he disappeared when nearing the final stage of the trip.

Preston explained that after making so late a start they thought it best not to try to reach Sudbury where they would have arrived after darkness. Preston said they would continue on today to Cochrane, 375 miles north of here.

CHICAGO CUBS WIN, 4-1

Brooklyn — (AP) — Artie Moore held the Cubs to five hits but two of them were home runs by Kild Cryler and Vince Barton and Chicago defeated the Robins 4 to 1 in the first game of today's doubleheader.

Dies At Washington

Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette, widow of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette and mother of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and Governor Philip F. LaFollette of Wisconsin, died late Tuesday afternoon at a hospital at Washington, D. C.

U. S. May Request Action On St. Lawrence Waterway

Washington — (AP) — Acting Secretary Castle of the state department, said today in response to questions by newspapermen that the American government might take the initiative in an effort to bring the St. Lawrence waterway under active consideration when Minister Herriede of Canada returns to Washington.

This statement was the first from an official source since the state department made public a letter from Mr. Castle to Governor Roosevelt of New York on the subject.

The letter was in reply to one from the governor to President Hoover inquiring the status of negotiations on the St. Lawrence project. The president turned the task of replying over to Mr. Castle. In the reply the governor was informed no negotiations were going on at this time.

The waterway project has been the subject of informal discussion between the two governments over a long period. Intimations in Washington just before the Canadian parliament adjourned recently were that the negotiations would become active during the summer and fall. At that time it was indicated the government had agreed to the Canadian position that the negotiations should be carried on through diplomatic channels rather than by a commission as suggested by the United States.

Official circles described the status of the discussions today as "temporarily suspended" because so many interested officials both in Washington and Ottawa were on vacation.

BULLFIGHTING HELD STATE LAW VIOLATION

Madison — (AP) — George F. Comings, state humane officer, said today that bullfighting is a violation of the law and Saukco officials will seek to prevent it Sunday at Lake Delton where a "Spanish style" bullfight is scheduled.

When he learned of the proposed bullfight, Mr. Comings informed Clifford LaMar, Saukco district attorney, to present full details of the exhibition. After studying evidence, he said today that he has informed officials that it must be prevented as a law violation.

CHARLES PONZI FACES DEPORTATION ACTION

Washington — (AP) — Charles Ponzi faces possible deportation to Italy when he is released from a Massachusetts prison.

Commissioner Hull of the immigration bureau, said today a deportation warrant was outstanding against Ponzi who was sentenced after a spectacular financial career.

Hull said the warrant provided for deportation on the ground that he had been informed Ponzi was eligible for parole next October and the warrant would be executed then if the prisoner is released.

HUNT STEVENS POINT MAN

Stevens Point — (AP) — After a 26-hour search, relatives announced today they were unable to find Walter Miller, 32, secretary of the Wausau-Portage County Marketing association, and local meat dealer. He starved for his store Monday morning and did not arrive.

PINCHOT URGES HOOVER TO CALL SPECIAL TERM

Says Session Needed to Consider Relief for U. S. Unemployed

Harrisburg, Pa. — (AP) — Governor Pinchot today sent a letter to President Hoover urging him to call a special session of congress in the near future to consider the question of federal aid to provide relief for the unemployed.

"You have yourself asked for appropriations by congress for relief of the needy in distant parts of the world," the governor wrote, "and, having obtained them, have supervised their expenditure. It would seem to be most opportune that you should do no less for our own needy here at home. Only an extra session of congress can empower you to do so in time."

"The total number of unemployed in Pennsylvania is more than 900,000 or nearly one-quarter of the whole working population," Governor Pinchot wrote. "Wages are decreasing; distress in many counties is acute; many children are suffering from malnutrition; because of unemployment the hospitals are overburdened and the demand for charity shows no decrease since summer over the high record of last winter."

"A situation like this in a state like Pennsylvania leads many to believe that the present emergency is as vital to the people as the great war. Local private charity can not meet the need. Local public relief which should carry the bulk of the load, is hampered or hamstrung like relief from state, by constitutional limitations upon appropriations and borrowing, and by the inability of taxpayers to pay."

Early Action Needed

"I am compelled by the necessities of my people to urge that you call an extra session of congress," he continued.

"The regular session of congress does not meet until December. After the two houses have organized, many subjects of grave and pressing importance, including relief for people across the sea, will demand immediate attention."

"Because of them, congress may not be able to consider with promptness, much less act quickly upon, the question of federal help. But even if appropriations for relief at home could be debated, passed, and approved by Christmas, they would still be too late for the machinery of distribution to be organized throughout the nation in time to prevent widespread suffering and the probability of serious disorder."

"For these reasons I urge upon you, with all the emphasis of which I am capable, not only the calling of an extra session of congress for the purpose of meeting this national emergency, but the calling of it at the earliest possible date."

"Because this question is of grave consequence to millions of our people I have taken the liberty of making this letter public."

The governor said social agencies in Pennsylvania had raised $11,200,000 for 1931, that special unemployment relief funds had added $5,000,000 and that every effort will be made to raise $5,000,000 more this fall.

HOOVER VIEW UNCHANGED

Washington — (AP) — The letter from Governor Pinchot asking President Hoover to call a special session of congress to deal with unemployment was received today at the White House.

Officials said the position taken repeatedly by the president that no extra session would be convened to deal with unemployment or related subjects remained unchanged.

The subject of an extra session was not considered necessary.

BULLETIN

Atlantic City, N. J. — (AP) — At least three persons are believed to have drowned, and more than fifty bathers were rescued by life guards when terrific waves broke over the beach, sweeping scores off their feet. Life guards at the South Carolina beach tent, and others stationed in the vicinity, immediately went to the rescue of struggling men, women and children in the sea, and tossing out in life boats, and tossing can buoys to the bathers who had been swept out. All but three are believed to have been accounted for.

Trio Admits Slaying Of Store Owner

Janesville — (AP) — Confessions from two men and a girl to the slaying of a month ago of Joseph Bleasdale, 70, store proprietor at Willowdale, seven miles west of here, were announced here today by Sheriff J. S. Fessenden.

First degree murder warrants were issued against William Cooper, 30, Burr Oak, and Alvin Grinde, 26, Melrose. Eva Butler, Janesville, was named an accessory.

Cooper was immediately arraigned before Judge Charles Lange, and his two companions in the unsuccessful hold-up were to be arraigned later today. Both men were serving 30-day terms for vagrancy when the confessions were obtained.

Bleasdale was fatally wounded when he resisted an attempt to rob him. Cooper, authorities said, fired the shot when the store proprietor reached toward a rifle. Bleasdale died at a hospital here three days later.

Grinde, the first of the suspects arrested, was detained here a week after the slaying on a vagrancy charge. He was brought here from La Crosse, Wis., when he was released in that city on an automobile larceny charge. Both admitted they were in this vicinity at the time of Bleasdale's death but until today denied responsibility for the shooting.

The sheriff said the Butler girl, described as the sweetheart of Grinde, drove the automobile in which the two men went to the store and later carried them away when their robbery plans went awry. They obtained nothing in the hold-up.

Bleasdale's son, Captain Victor Bleasdale of the United States Marine corps, stationed at Quantico, Va., was home on leave at the time of the hold-up and remained for a time to assist authorities in their search for the slayers. He has since returned to Quantico.

GREEN BAY MAN IS ACCUSED OF MURDER

First Degree Charge Brought Against Kaufman in Death of Girl

Green Bay — (AP) — Arlie Kaufman, 25, will be charged with first degree murder as the result of the death of Alice Gerlikowski, 21, who died of a skull fracture Monday after an all-night "party" with Kaufman, V. C. Lewellen, district attorney, stated today.

"Our present information does not indicate whether Alice's injuries were inflicted with intent to cause death," Lewellen said, "so we are bringing a first degree charge, which may be reduced if the evidence warrants it."

Kaufman is still held in the county jail here, but was expected to be taken here before Municipal Judge N. J. Monahan today for arraignment. Sheriff Joseph Francis denied rumors about the city that Kaufman had attempted to commit suicide in the jail.

The accused man has retained Hugh A. Munahan, former deputy attorney-general, as counsel and has declined to make any further statements, it was learned today.

WHEEL CHAIR TOURIST IS HURT IN ACCIDENT

Indianapolis, Ind. — (AP) — A cross country trip in a wheel chair was halted temporarily for Abraham Applebaum, New York, today as a result of an accident near Lawrence, near here.

He was guiding his chair across the highway last night when an automobile driven by Mrs. Bertha Lukemeier, Indianapolis, clipped a corner of the chair. Applebaum was slightly injured and his chair damaged.

Applebaum an invalid, said he was traveling from New York to Houston, Texas, in his chair when he operated by hand.

BODY TO ARRIVE ON THURSDAY AT STATE CAPITAL

Widow of "Fighting Bob" Dies at Washington After Operation

SONS AT HER BEDSIDE

Belle Case LaFollette Known as "Counselor" to Husband and Sons

Madison — (AP) — Funeral services for Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette, who died in Washington last night, will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the State Historical library here, it was announced today.

Max C. Otto, professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin and long friend of the LaFollette family, will give an appreciation. No other service will be held.

The body is to leave Washington today and will arrive here at 5:30 p. m. Thursday over the Northwest road. In the funeral party are Mr. and Mrs. George Middleton, Sen. Robert LaFollette, Gov. Philip LaFollette, and Mrs. Ralph LaFollette, and Mrs. Middleton was Fola LaFollette, and Mrs. Sucher was Mary LaFollette.

Palbearers will be Sen. Robert LaFollette, Gov. Philip LaFollette, Herman L. Ekers, Alfred T. Rogers, George Middleton, Ralph Sucher, and Jack Roe.

Washington — (AP) — Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette, widow, mother and counselor of noted Progressive leaders, died here late yesterday of shock following an abdominal operation.

Both Senator Robert LaFollette, Jr., and Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, sons, and a daughter, Mrs. Ralph G. "Duchess" Washington, of C. C. are at the bedside when death came.

The distinguished sons of the 72-year-old widow of the late senator, "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, arrived only a few hours before the end after rushing by airplane and train from their Wisconsin homes. She recognized them, greeting them with a faint smile.

So brief was the sickness of Mrs. LaFollette that few of her friends knew she was ill. Hope for her recovery had been held out to the last. Accompanied by the sons and daughter, the body was to be placed aboard a train at 2:30 p. m. today.

Tentative arrangements call for a simple service at either the executive mansion or the family home.

Engrossed in writing a biography of the man she married more than half a century ago, Mrs. LaFollette was stricken several days ago and an operation to remove an intestinal obstruction was performed.

Able Aid To Husband

It was the elder LaFollette who gave his wife the name "the counselor." He referred to the able assistance she rendered in his office and his home while he rose from private law practice, to district attorney, United States representative, governor and senator, and finally to the Progressive nomination for the presidency in 1924.

An active campaigner both for woman's suffrage and for her husband in 1924, Mrs. LaFollette nevertheless found her chief work in making the family a forum of Progressivism. It was her wisdom as mother, and her perennial youth of mental outlook that called forth the young senator's tribute.

"The marvelous thing about her, to me," the senator said last night, "was her ability to reflect that allowed her to link that was between the pioneer and the new order—to appreciate the problems of this modern age."

Born at Waukegan, Mrs. LaFollette spent her girlhood at Baraboo. She met Robert Marion LaFollette on the campus of the state university at Madison. They were married several years later, after she had followed the first profession she learned—school teaching. That was in 1889. LaFollette had just graduated in law.

Studied Law At U. W.

While he practiced, she went back to the university and studied law. By the time he was elected district attorney, she was the first woman graduate in law. Thereafter she shared his public life as few wives of public men have done.

When LaFollette was elected to the senate in 1904, after several terms in the house, Mrs. LaFollette established a home that has been maintained here ever since. Here the family regularly discussed the public affairs in which LaFollette rose to leadership.

Before the World was the family home was also a Mecca for friends who shared their ideas. Mrs. LaFollette's salons were noted in liberal groups of the capital.

Friends said that Mrs. LaFollette approved of the senator's stand against the United States' entrance in the World war.

The family spirit again showed itself when the elder LaFollette died in 1925. Young Bob agreed with friends that his mother should bow to demands that she run to succeed his father. But Mrs. LaFollette demurred.

Hundreds Added To Chinese Death Toll As Big Dyke Breaks

EPIDEMICS ADD TO TERRORS IN FLOOD REGION

Impossible to Check Up on Casualties in Hankow's Stricken Zone

Hankow, China.—(AP)—Flood waters of the Yangtze river today broke through the big Chikow dyke protecting Hankow's western suburb, inundating the native industrial district and taking several hundred more lives.

Adding to the chaos of the last three weeks, in which flood waters have robbed some 30,000 persons of their homes and let 10,000,000 of them destitute, the renewed onslaught of the river covered the highest ground in Hankow under five feet of water and the lower areas ten to twenty feet under.

Epidemics became more serious among the refugees, who had nothing to drink but flood water. Typhoid, cholera and dysentery raged unchecked among the Chinese.

Industry in Hankow was demoralized. Big flour, cotton and silk mills were flooded when the dyke broke. Such confusion prevailed that it was impossible to count the casualties.

All foreigners were reported safe. The majority of foreign women had left or were leaving on every available steamer.

Chinese were moving out by all other usable channels of travel. Big river junks were moving through what once were streets, removing refugees and valuables from homes and warehouses.

In Wuchang an important dyke burst. In the ancient city of HanYang the waters topped the gates of the city wall.

Today's catastrophe here was witnessed by John Earl Baker, American relief expert and adviser to the Chinese railway ministry, who is heading a party surveying the stricken area. The flooded district includes the river bottoms of four provinces, Anhwei, Hupei, Hunan and Honan.

Baker described the flood as "probably China's most terrible disaster in the present century."

The Chinese government has organized an extensive relief agency and has issued a nationwide appeal for help. Inquiries have been made of the American Farm Board looking toward possible purchase of surplus American wheat on credit for use among the refugees.

BLEAK POLE AREA ABOUNDS WITH LIFE

Unexplored Regions Skirted by Graf Zeppelin May Explain Food Supply

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
New York.—(AP)—Seen through the eyes of an Andree or a Stefansson, the Arctic ice over which the Graf Zeppelin flew is anything but a bleak waste.

Stefansson saw it and lived; Andree saw—and died. But both saw it filled with life.

Where from? Andree, more than 30 years ago, thought this life might be drifting across the polar seas from some unknown land to the northward.

If such a land exists, it must lie in the great "blind" spot, an unexplored area inside the circle of "eighty north," a region whose southern edge the Graf has planned to skim.

There is another explanation than land for the life Andree found on top of the ice flows. He and two companions, landing in July from their balloon, walked for weeks without sight of land.

They had started with little food, yet in October when they made land, they already had gathered a fair food supply for the winter.

This was principally meat of bears, which they found plentiful on the ice. They saw also seals and various kinds of birds, some of which they shot.

Instead of coming from some unknown land, these animals and birds might have been attracted from distant but charted shores by the food supply under the ice, the marine life.

Although the Arctic surface is a vast expanse mostly ice and snow, the cold seas beneath are among the oceans' greatest "green pastures."

There flourish the diatoms, tiny plants, which are the basic food of creatures a little larger, in turn eaten by still bigger sea dwellers, until the whole cycle is fed.

Stefansson said civilized man could be healthy on meat alone, as in the Arctic, and tried the experiment in New York city with apparent success.

What most people don't know about this Stefansson diet is his definition of "meat." Lean meat as an exclusive diet has been shown to be bad for the health. But Stefansson's meat includes the fat.

There is an anecdote concerning a Washington stenographer who, after a long day's work, came home and found a hot summer day. "I only had a piece of seal blubber to chew."

Baltimore.—Gloria F. Ruppe, although just a girl of 8, can put to shame many of the country's best sharpshooters. In competing in a rifle match with 58 men, she lost only one event. At Raymore, Mo., recently she made 285 consecutive target hits, 98 per cent of them being bull-eyes.

GUARDSMEN PUT DOWN CLAMP ON WELLS IN TEXAS

Attempt to Stop Every Producing Well in East Texas Oil Field

Kilgore, Texas.—(AP)—Texas national guardsmen continued their patrol of the east Texas oil field today, intent on closing down the last of a handful of wells still flowing in lonely sections, in violation of martial law orders.

General Jacob F. Wolters, commander of the troops, who announced yesterday the shutdown was practically 100 per cent effective, hoped to be able to report today the valve on every one of the 1,600 producing wells in the field had been turned off in compliance with the order of Gov. Ross S. Sterling, who acted to curb the prolific field until Texas' new oil conservation laws could be put into action.

Guardsmen had evolved a new method to prevent operators from reopening wells without their knowledge. Seals were being placed on each valve as the well was closed down. Troops patrolled the rig, making sure operators would not feel safe in re-opening.

The shutdown in the east Texas field together with the complete stoppage of crude oil production in Oklahoma by Gov. William H. Murray's martial law order, had resulted in cutting off two-fifths of the nation's output. Production in east Texas alone before the shutdown averaged approximately 750,000 barrels daily.

Mid-continent operators watched closely the effects of the sharp cut in production to see if it would relieve the depressed petroleum industry. Many leaders of the industry expressed the opinion it would bring higher prices. The first move along this line came yesterday when the Morgan Petroleum company in Oklahoma increased its price for Oklahoma oil to 77 cents a barrel, a boost of 25 cents from the previous maximum.

Gov. Murray had demanded $1 a barrel.

General Wolters extended leniency last night to Ed Mayer, the first man arrested for disobedience of the shutdown order when he became convinced the offender had no knowledge of the proclamation which became effective at 6 o'clock a. m. (C. S. T.) last Monday. Mayer, a pumpjack, was released after several hours questioning.

New York.—The Bourbons of gangdom are soon to hear a new Marshall. George M. Cohan, who wrote "Over There" has dedicated his latest marching song to the war on gangsters.

There flourish the diatoms, tiny plants, which are the basic food of creatures a little larger, in turn eaten by still bigger sea dwellers, until the whole cycle is fed.

Stefansson said civilized man could be healthy on meat alone, as in the Arctic, and tried the experiment in New York city with apparent success.

What most people don't know about this Stefansson diet is his definition of "meat." Lean meat as an exclusive diet has been shown to be bad for the health. But Stefansson's meat includes the fat.

SEES NEED FOR U. S. TO LOWER PRODUCING COST

Dr. Kinsman Says That Is Only Way for America to Meet Russian Threat

If the United States is to meet the threat of Russian competition on the world market it must lower its production costs to a point where it can underbid the Soviets in competition.

This conclusion is drawn by Dr. D. O. Kinsman, professor of economics at American university Washington, D. C. Dr. Kinsman, formerly connected with Lawrence college here, was the speaker at a meeting of the Appleton Rotary club and Rotary Annex at Riverview Country club last night.

The subject of his talk was "The Economic Situation in Russia." He used as a basis for his address the experiences and investigations which he made about a year ago when, in company with 25 other American economists, he made a trip through the Soviet Union.

"It was the unanimous conclusion of our group at the conclusion of our tour that Russia will never return to capitalist rule and that it will never return to the capitalist or individual regime," Dr. Kinsman said. "While the country is bent on putting to use all the modern equipment and business methods produced by the capitalist group, nevertheless, the Russians are determined to destroy the capitalist group."

The progress which the Soviets are making should not be underestimated by United States, Dr. Kinsman warned.

Look For Best
"If we are alert we will be looking for the best, which would be the complete failure of the Russian five-year plan, but we will be prepared for the worst, which would be the success of the plan," the economist said. "Our refusal to recognize Russia and our hope that this refused recognition might stop her entry in the markets of the world is but a false hope. If Russia should dump 50 or 75 million bushels of wheat on the market at Liverpool the prices in the United States would fall just as surely as if this immense quantity were dumped on the market in Chicago."

He told how the five-year plan of the Russians came into being and explained what an immense task this new government faces in its attempt to put the plan across. He pointed out that Russia has a population of more than 160 million people and that this population is increasing at the rate of 10,000 per day, a higher rate of increase than in all the rest of Europe. He said that Russia occupies an area three times as large as the United States and as large as all of North America. The five-year plan, briefly, he said, is a program by which the government hopes to raise its standard of living and step up production to a point where the government factories are producing enough of every kind of product to amply supply its entire population.

Plan Is Formed
This plan was evolved when a commission, under whose jurisdiction the mining industries of the country were placed, worked out the plan for its own particular problem. Other economists then decided that a five-year program could be planned for the entire nation. This meant that some group of men must make a survey of the entire nation and decide just how much of each particular commodity would be necessary each year for the next five years and how much the cost of production should be. The next step was the placing of the task of producing this material into the hands of another commission, with a separate commission for each of the almost countless industries which might be listed. The planning commission's task also included the job of figuring how much goods the increased population would be using.

The carp, scorned for his bad habits and his abundance, lives as long as the mighty elephant—more than 150 years, and the vulture outstages the golden eagle's century mark by a decade or two. And the canary lives more than twice as long as the cat, reaching 24, unless the cat takes unfair advantage in the race. Our common "Green Bay fly," so familiar to everyone, lives but three happy days, unless gobbled up by some waiting fish.

Speaking of the age certain fish attain, let me cite the case of the musky. Seldom it is that a dead specimen is ever seen in any of our waters. They are no doubt eaten up very shortly after they die by birds, crawfish or animals that frequent the waters. However, there appears a way of determining their age. At one of the resorting camps north country a mounted musky weighing 49 pounds adorns the dining room. This fine fish was perpetuated by one of the leading taxidermists of the country. I read a letter written by him to the owner of the fish in which he stated that careful estimation of the age of this fish, made from accepted rules of determination, placed it at 70 years.

The marvel of it is that so many big specimens of muskies are captured every year, considering how long they must escape the hooks of the army of anglers who seek them every season. To acquire weights of from 40 to 80 pounds.

As well as how much goods the stable population would use.

"Expert engineers from other countries were called in to assist the various commissions in stepping up the production of existing factories, building additions to present factories and erecting new factories. The number of German engineers and experts leads all others in Russia, with Americans a close second. There also are many French, Italian and English engineers employed."

But despite the fact that Russia now is working toward the goal of supplying goods enough for its own people, nevertheless the economists drew the conclusion, Dr. Kinsman declared, that it always has its eye on the world markets and on the time when it can throw its vast production facilities into competition with the rest of the world.

Moves Faster
While the United States and other countries are seeking methods to lower production costs by the ever-increasing use of more efficient machinery, the Russians are moving ahead faster because they not only press these same machines into service, but they have an almost limitless supply of labor. This is the result, he said, of putting women into industry as well as men.

The women of Russia, he said, are even trained in military tactics so that they can take up arms in defense of their country should there ever be war. In Russia, he said, everyone works.

Although the industrial and production program of Russia appears on the surface to be advancing rapidly, Dr. Kinsman said, there is one phase of the situation which the economists were unable to plumb: That was the unit cost of production on any particular article. Sources to show this cost were never available, Dr. Kinsman said, and he hoped that their efforts to obtain such information always were purposely evaded.

Two commissions handle the Russian goods that are produced. One commission handles the distribution of the products needed for living through cooperatives, which resemble American stores. The other commission handles all goods produced for export.

Three Classes
The Russian people are divided into three classes. The first class, composed of the workmen engaged in the harvest and most necessary manual labor, is Class A. Those in it receive tickets which enable them to purchase the things they need from the cooperative stores at low prices. The intellectual classes are in Class B. They receive tickets enabling them to buy from the cooperative stores at slightly higher prices than Class A and the variety of goods available to them is somewhat limited. Lower class laborers and members of the union still seeking work are in Class C. Their tickets give them a still smaller choice of goods than those in Class B and at still higher prices.

All other people in Russia are in no class at all and they cannot even make purchases at the cooperatives. They must buy in open markets where prices are stupendous. This system actually is causing considerable suffering and starvation, Dr. Kinsman said. In open markets, he said, butter sells at $8 per pound; sugar, $1.50 pound; eggs, $1.20 a dozen; beef, 70 cents a pound; cotton trousers, $35 pair; shoes, $40 pair, etc.

REICH IN DOUBT ABOUT FRENCH VIEW ON DEBTS

Germany Not Over-optimistic Regarding Bankers' Recommendations

Berlin.—(AP)—News from Basel that the Wiggin committee had recommended immediate revision of reparations was received today with intense interest but with apprehension as to the attitude of France.

Memories of the joy and disillusionment which followed the announcement of the Hoover moratorium plan two months ago tended to dampen any tendency toward over-optimism, although the committee's declarations were welcomed as corroboration of the viewpoint long stressed by the German government and its economists that political debts are enemies of international financial stability.

Particularly effective as a brake on enthusiasm were the recent remarks of Finance Minister Flandin of France, on reparations payments from the standpoint of the restoration of war-time devastation and damage.

These were widely interpreted here as a warning that France would not allow payments to her to be considered in the same category as other political debts.

The first afternoon paper off the press, the Democratic Berliner Zeitung, devoted its front page to a summary of the report with an introductory editorial characterizing it as "the most important document on the German economic situation since the experts' report that led to the Dawes plan."

The paper said that the report above all recognized the creditworthiness of Germany and established that her present credit difficulties are due primarily to political causes. "It defines the German situation so clearly," the paper said, "and addresses such unmistakable demands toward the governments of the nations with which it cannot remain without decisive consequences for Germany's economic policy and that of Europe and the world."

The reaction in financial circles was not particularly optimistic. The achievement of a six months extension of short term credits is considerably less immediate relief than had been expected from the Basel negotiations. The promise of more distant relief was regarded as being heavily conditioned on further conferences which would be unlikely to make rapid progress.

No Official Comment
A digest of the Wiggin report was on every cabinet member's desk this morning but no responsible minister was willing to comment officially.

Informally high officials already had revealed that Germany is satisfied with the report as representing the best which may be obtained under the circumstances. There is considerable satisfaction at the reference to the necessity for immediate revision of reparations.

In the words of one prominent financial expert, it is unlikely that there will be any statement from members of the cabinet at least until the American attitude toward the international discussion of the report is made known. This official attitude be not misinterpreted in such as to indicate that Germany does not appreciate to the full the year of respite under the Hoover moratorium.

Another responsible official summed up the Wiggin report thus: "In general it is good; the facts are reasonable although it is technical that careful analysis will be necessary. The demands upon Germany are somewhat painful from the viewpoint of national prestige, but when one considers how bad conditions are in the creditor countries, this must be overlooked."

"Great progress has been made in understanding of the international situation, as the Wiggin report

WALL STREET PLEASSED
New York.—(AP)—Informal comment in Wall Street circles indicated considerable satisfaction today with the report of the Wiggin committee on German finances.

The report of the committee was clearly in line with opinions which have recently been expressed informally by prominent bankers.

It has been felt in Wall Street that while the Young plan payments are due to be resumed in about ten months, no long term loan to Germany is possible. Bankers foresee little prospect of sufficiently rapid revival of world business conditions to make resumption of payments feasible on the old basis.

WASHINGTON SILENT

Washington.—(AP)—Administration circles were silent today on the Wiggin bankers' committee report recommending revision of the whole war debt-reparations structure.

At the White House it was said President Hoover had read news-paper dispatches summarizing the report, but there was no comment to be made.

State department officials said they were uncertain whether the text of the report would be cabled to the department by American diplomatic officials in Switzerland.

One high official described the report as of "Great importance," but declined to comment further.

COUNTY BOARD STUDIES COST OF BLACK TOP

Several Supervisors Recommend Use of This Material on Highways

An investigation of the cost and life of black top or asphalt penetration surfacing for roads was ordered yesterday afternoon by the Outagamie-co board with the appointment of a committee of three which will submit a report to the supervisors next November. The information gathered by the committee will assist the county board, it was brought out, in planning its future road improvement program.

Members of the committee are: R. C. Schultz, town of Cicero, chairman; A. W. Laabs, town of Grand Chute; and C. J. Burdick, Black Creek. It was through adoption of a resolution presented by Supervisors Laabs and Schultz that the investigation of black top pavements was ordered. Mr. Laabs pointed out that he believed the black top road is more economical and practical than either the concrete or gravel road. He pointed out that in 1930 it cost the county $111,702 for maintenance of gravel roads and in 1931, so far, the county already has spent $31,886 for the same work. He said concrete roads are constantly in need of repairs because they are damaged by changes in weather, while gravel roads are constantly in need of repairs because they are so easily worn out by traffic.

Bonded for Roads
Outagamie-co's first concrete roads were laid about 15 or 20 yards ago," Mr. Laabs said. "The county bonded itself to complete a wide better-road program and by the time these bonds are paid off the roads will be so badly worn out that it will be necessary to build new ones. Black top roads, however, can be constructed at a lower cost and they will prove more satisfactory than concrete or gravel."

Bearing out Mr. Laabs' contention of lower costs Mr. Schultz declared that materials for black top roads could be purchased from manufacturers in the county at a cost from one-fifth to one-sixth of the cost which the county has paid for black top pavements which bear a trade name. He said the specifications for black top roads are made by the state highway commission and that the black top type of surfacing supplied by some firms bears a trade name which greatly increases the cost. He said that black top surfacing consists of more than 90 per cent stone and that he has secured estimates from manufacturers in the county who said they could produce the material for from $3 to $4 per cubic yard. The county has paid, he said, from $22 to $25 per cubic yard for the same type of surfacing. He said that a black top pavement made in the county could be put down for between $2,500 and $4,000 per mile, whereas concrete pavement costs about $20,000 per mile.

Tells His Stand
Arnold Krueger, Apple Creek supervisor and chairman of the county highway committee, declared that he was not in favor of laying black top pavements when a substance with a trade name is used and the county has to pay heavily. He said he thought if Mr. Schultz's claims are correct, that the county might be wise to follow his suggestion.

A special committee, composed of the county highway committee, the district attorney, and Supervisors A. W. Laabs, T. H. Ryan, and William Beck, reported to the board that after an examination of the new state gas tax law, it was its conclusion that funds received from the state for highway improvement could be used to pay off the county's present bonded indebtedness for roads built in the past.

The board voted to permit the city of Kaukauna to use $5,000, provided for improvement Highway 55 in that city, on an improvement on County Trunk 2. The funds were not needed on Highway 55 because the state has agreed to take care of the work.

The board became involved in a long discussion on the necessity of the subway which the state proposes to build at the intersection of Highway 10 and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, just west of the city. The supervisors were divided in their opinions as to whether the viaduct is necessary. The matter was finally settled when the board voted to have the county highway committee make a complete investigation. The committee then has the authority to ask the state to continue or drop plans for the improvement.

3 Trains a Day
One supervisor pointed out that there are only three trains a day over this crossing, that the danger is almost negligible, and that it would not warrant the expenditure of thousands of dollars for a subway. Supervisor Schultz pointed out that railroads are almost daily abandoning non-paying lines and that at some future date this line might be abandoned and the entire project would then be useless. Other supervisors objected to the subway because they felt that the county's grounds about the asylum and county garage might be damaged.

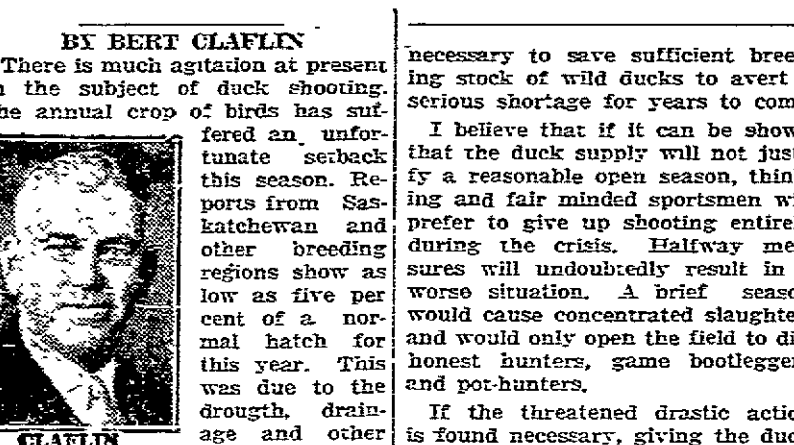

Supervisor T. H. Ryan said he wouldn't discuss the merits of this

Scores Halfway Measures In Preservation Of Ducks

BY BERT GLAFLIN
There is much agitation at present on the subject of duck shooting. The annual crop of birds has suffered an unfortunate setback this season. Reports from Saskatchewan and other breeding regions show as low as five per cent of a normal hatch for this year. This was due to the drought, drainage and other causes. Either a duck shooting season of reasonable length this fall or an entirely closed season is the announced stand of the American Game association pending completion of final private and official investigations of major waterfowl nesting areas in the northwestern states and the prairie provinces of Canada.

Having lopped two weeks off the shooting season of every state already on the strength of drought conditions, the Bureau of Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture has issued a warning that further drastic restrictions may be necessary to save sufficient breeding stock of wild ducks to avert a serious shortage for years to come. I believe that if it can be shown that the duck supply will not justify a reasonable open season, thinking and fair minded sportsmen will prefer to give up shooting entirely during the crisis. Halfway measures will undoubtedly result in a worse situation. A brief season would cause concentrated slaughter, and would only open the field to dishonest hunters, game bootleggers and pot-hunters.

If the threatened drastic action is found necessary, giving the duck crop a year of protection in which to recuperate would simply enforce the present waterfowl shortage may be the beginning of concerted action toward restoration of breeding grounds destroyed by drainage as much as by drought. The fogging of the issue with ineffective regulations may encourage a disgruntled attitude unfavorable to the concerted restoration activity needed.

At first thought it seems that cutting off two weeks of the season all along the route of the ducks is bound to result in much good. It will save many birds, yet it is manifestly unfair. The hunters of Wisconsin will get no teal or mallards. Illinois being in the same zone will as Wisconsin does. And that shooting will begin just when the summer ducks reach the river bottoms of the Illinois and Sangamon. It is easy to see who will get the ducks. I believe that just as many birds will be shot as would be if the season opened in Wisconsin September 16th as formerly.

And this will apply all along the route down to the Gulf states. There is usually a "nigger in the fence" somewhere in moves of this kind. Personally, if the wild ducks are bearing the danger points of annihilation as is claimed with reason, I am for a closed season all over the United States for a year, or for five years if necessary.

particular subway because he wasn't acquainted with them, but that so far as affording any relief for unemployed the entire viaduct building program is a mere farce. He said so few men are being employed on these jobs that it is ridiculous to spend so much money on them. He said he thought it would have been better for the state to save this large fund and lower taxes.

The board adopted a resolution from the highway committee agreeing to assist the city of Appleton in seeking the relocation of Highway 10 over Badger-ave from Wisconsin-ave to Memorial-d.

Oney Johnston Post Float Makes Hit at Annual Legion Parade

Oney Johnston post members of the American legion who have been attending sessions of the state department convention at Chippewa Falls will return to Appleton late today and Thursday. A few of the former service men returned home Tuesday night after the annual parade.

Because the veterans are not actively interested in the elections, the Appleton delegation centered most of its attention on Tuesday's parade. The post float, depicting infantrymen protecting their machine gun, attracted much attention in the parade yesterday and drew great applause from spectators as it passed the grand stand. Another local legionnaire riding an ancient high wheel bicycle also attracted much attention and received applause as he passed, dressed in the apparel of days gone by.

Plans For Volunteer Relief Work Reach Deadlock Stage

NO DECISION ON METHOD TO CARE FOR POOR

Charitable Organizations Divided Over Necessity for Social Worker

The movement to unite city forces and women's welfare organizations to face the poor situation in Appleton this winter under a centralized council of relief reached an impasse last night at the joint meeting of the council committee on poor and representatives of relief societies at city hall. The "bone of contention" concerned the employment of a social welfare worker, discussed by Gustave Keller, St. chairman of the Citizens' committee on unemployment, but upheld by several of the relief groups which worked with Home Aid last year.

Representatives from the Jewish Ladies Aid and the City Relief society, the women's organizations opposing the formation of a cooperative welfare association without a welfare worker, declared that supervision from a trained worker is necessary. The Appleton Apostolate supported the proposed welfare council plan and the German Ladies Aid was non-committal.

Keller Opposes Worker
Mr. Keller opposed the services of a social worker from the standpoint of the poor situation in Appleton. He said that the women's organizations who have been in welfare work for many years can carry out this winter's program efficiently. According to the relief plan outlined by Mr. Keller at a former meeting, the relief organizations in the city would federate to form a unified city relief and welfare organization, the work to be carried out by women in relief groups and the policies of the entire federation to be directed by a representative council and executive committee. As Mr. Keller pointed out, his plan does not forbid a social worker but suggests rather that an employed worker not be included this winter because of the expense.

"The problem for the coming year," he said, "is one of relief, not of rehabilitation of families. We will be doing more for the people we aid this winter by using all the money for relief rather than for administration."

Mr. Keller pointed out that this proposed council is not a permanent organization, but a method to cope with the situation in the city during this winter. He asserted his belief that the women of Appleton can handle the work competently without a welfare worker.

He raised the question of where the money is coming to pay the salary and expenses of a welfare worker. He pointed out that under the cooperative association plan, the money would be supplied from the board of directors and that the full time secretary will take care of the records, which has heretofore taken much of the time of welfare workers. This person would act as the clearing officer of the council.

Outline Objections
Mrs. J. P. Frank, representing the Jewish Ladies Aid, presented the general objections to the proposed organization. She said that the women objected to it primarily because of the lack of supervision, that they are against disbursing money or goods without advice and that money would be saved if there was supervision by a welfare worker.

It was brought out that at least $2,400 would be required to pay the salary and expenses of a welfare worker.

Robert McGillan, chairman of the city officials relief and welfare association, stated that the taxpayers will support a fund this year only if the city is to be in close contact with the expenditures of the money. He explained that the laboring class, particularly does not want relief work supervised by organizations other than the city. He declared that if the people of Appleton know that the benevolent societies are co-operating with the city in extending aid and relief, then there will be little trouble to obtain funds again this year.

$14.60 Per Family
For 91 families in July, the city spent $1,395.75 for relief, making an average of $14.60 per family, according to a report of W. L. Lyons, commissioner of poor, which was read by Mr. McGillan. It was brought out that the city has paid for part of the fuel and most of the rent for the Home Aid families as well as families in the city poor department. For July the city spent $147 for board; $555 for groceries; $74.91 for means; $49.49 for milk; $49 for medical aid; $41.39 for hospital care; $129.58 for drugs; $20 for shoes and a considerable amount for fuel, hospital supplies, garden seeds, railroad fares, and deliveries to poor families.

"If the situation this winter is as difficult as we expect it to be," Mr. Keller said, "it would be well to be organized at that time. When the money from the individual organizations is gone, the organization workers will continue working with city money." Mr. Keller stressed the importance of doing something about the situation immediately, since the city will be forced to begin working on the problem independently.

Suggests Store Room
The benefits of a community store room operated jointly by the city and the proposed organization were brought out by Mr. Keller. Methods of supplying food and clothing would become uniform and duplication of work would be eliminated, with a general welfare association, according to Mr. Keller's outline, each organization would maintain its organization independence, and each member group would be represented in the council as a part of a self-governing body. Mr. Keller also explained that the bureau of unemployment research in Madison is interested in the proposed plan and that the city would in charge of the welfare relief and employment with the state industrial commission.

South Trying To Solve Cotton Surplus Problem

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—The south looked to several sources today hoping that from one of them might be developed a way out of its cotton surplus dilemma.

Chief interest centered about the possibilities of the meeting called for Friday at New Orleans by Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana who is seeking to bring about a cotton-growing holiday in 1932.

Last night Governor Long announced that should the south accept his plan, he would ask the federal government to enlist the interest of foreign cotton growing countries in an acreage regulation plan for world stabilization of price similar to the Chadbourne sugar plan.

From Georgia, U. S. Senator George H. E. Smith, a suggestion that a 6-cent per pound payment for cotton be made at once by the Federal Farm Board with an additional 6 cents next year if farmers agree not to plant cotton in 1932. He urged a special session of congress unless the farm board acts immediately.

The farm board has made the suggestion that southern farmers plow under every third row of cotton to cut this year's predicted crop of 15,000,000 bales. But neither this suggestion nor that of Governor Bibbo of Mississippi, to leave a third of the cotton unplucked has attracted any widespread support. Governor Murray of Oklahoma has suggested as a solution that only the best bolls be picked and ginned.

One other suggestion has been that the state take over the 1931 crop at a fixed price.

Congressman Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, yesterday issued a statement in which he said he was considering introduction of a bill this fall to abolish the farm board and provide that cotton and wheat in now has on hand be held until the price of cotton goes to 12 cents a pound and that of wheat to 80 cents a bushel.

STORES ARE CROWDED DURING DOLLAR DAY

Early Reports Indicate That Merchants' Venture Is Successful

Women bustling in and out of stores, nudging their way in and out between crowded counters, husbands following in tow with bundles and the baby in their arms were familiar sights on College-ave this morning when Dollar Day activities were in full swing.

Bargains were offered by Appleton merchants that were outstanding. Reductions were made in all departments of stores. It is reported that Dollar Day this year was another successful out-ward venture sponsored by merchants and the retail division of the chamber of commerce. Judging by the crowds that thronged the downtown district at 11 o'clock this morning many Appleton and out of town people took advantage of this bargain day. Fifty stores in the city participated in the event.

Sydney, N. S. W.—A king's ransom has been picked up 15 feet under the surface of the ground. It is a black opal weighing 711 carats. It was mined at Lightning ridge, famous Australian opal field. It weighs 450 carats more than the heaviest stone of its kind known.

praised the plan of organization. Mr. Winmar, who is in Appleton this week to study the relief situation has contacted with relief organizations throughout the state.

CUBAN REVOLT FORCES READY FOR STRUGGLE

Havana Palace Says Rebels Surrounded—Censor Halts Reliable Report

Havana.—(AP)—Authoritative news of the Cuban revolt was effectively bottled up by government censorship today but reports indicated decisive battles were brewing in several provinces.

A rebel expedition comprising 500 men and scores of machine guns landed at Gibrari in upper Oriente from the German vessel Frederick II. The palace admitted unofficially that the report was true but said the force was surrounded by federal troops.

Another expeditionary force was reported to have landed on the upper Santa Clara coast and rebels were said to have derailed the Fomento-Trinidad train south of Santa Clara. The government dispatched 200 more soldiers to Santa Clara to form lines with the detachment there against rebels concentrating near Trinidad.

Army headquarters announced that Col. Aurelio Hevia, his son and two other rebel leaders were captured in a drug store in Colon, Matanzas province. They will be imprisoned in Cabañal fortress with former President Menocal and Col. Mendite, prime movers of the revolt. Major Celestino Balza surrendered at the fortress and was jailed.

President Gerardo Machado remained in Santa Clara, attempting to quell the movement, but little news of his success reached here. He had expected to return several days ago but the tenacity of the insurgents has delayed his departure.

Fear that the insurrection might spread to Havana led the government to take stringent precautions. Ten armored trucks remain in front of police headquarters at all hours for possible emergencies. The house-to-house search for arms and ammunition was suspended. It was learned, after the government found that great quantities were stored in well-barricaded dwellings.

Report On Casualties
A report from Camp Columbia on the outskirts of Havana said the bodies of 150 federal troops, killed in action, had been brought there, although official sources said only six had lost their lives. The government count shows 67 rebels dead.

William Hieber, former American and naturalized citizen of Cuba, was said by the palace to have surrendered in Santa Clara after leading insurgent forces that destroyed 15,000 worth of property belonging to Senator Carlos Machado, brother of the president. He will join the political prisoners in Cabañal fortress.

At Tampa, Fla., Lieut. Rafael Reyna, exiled officer of the Cuban navy, said he had learned that President Machado and his troops had been cut off from Havana by the rebels and were in imminent danger of capture. Machado would be taken within 48 hours unless he should retreat by airplane, Reyna said.

Federal soldiers are joining the rebellion, he said, and rebels have captured several cities within the last three days and are within an hour of Havana.

A rebel junta of 150 men was reported to control all that in New York in aiding the revolution. Eusebio Eria, veteran of the war of independence, was named president.

Expect Many Flowers At Annual Show

In spite of the dearth of sunshine and hot, dry days, the fall flower show to be given in the Armory Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 and 30, promises to be one of the most successful ever sponsored by the flower and garden division of the chamber of commerce.

Flower lovers have taken care of their gardens during the hot weather, keeping them in trim and carefully watering them during the dry season. Most of the local gardens are in excellent condition for this season. In the city the scorching rays of the sun did comparatively little damage to flowers since their owners were able to keep them moist by artificial means.

Exhibitors intending to enter flowers and plants in the fall show should be preparing for the display now. They should choose their flowers this early and keep them in good condition. Flowers should be picked regularly and kept moist during the hot weather. Exhibitors who choose flower buds for display should see that they are perfect at this time. In order to have the loveliest flowers from a garden to exhibit, more specimens than are necessary should be chosen for show entry. In this way there is a chance to select the best flower just before the show.

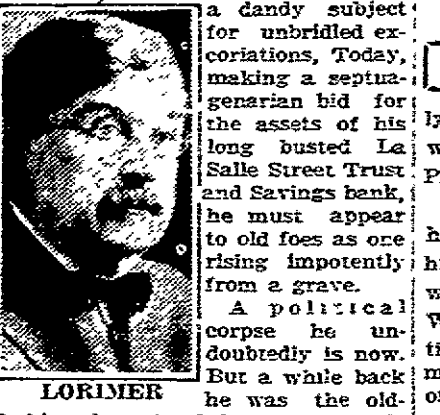

Anyone who has flowers to exhibit is invited to participate in the fall flower show, since the purpose of the show is to stimulate a community interest in flowers and gardening.

LORIMER

fashioned sort of boss who made political corpses. Coming to Illinois from England at five, he got quickly rid of an apprenticeship to a sign painter and went into real estate. Next, contracting, that business beloved of men who fancy politics. At 34 he reached the house of representatives. In 1899 he strong-armed his way into the senate. That was the peak of a slowly achieved success. He owned half a million. His state was supreme under his thumb.

His state was supreme under his thumb. The toga he passionately desired, swung from his big shoulders. A fitting reward, he very well may have said, for a man who didn't smoke, drink, and was incontestably good to his wife and eight children.

Lorimer has never attempted a public description of the disaster which followed precipitately. Within three years he had been thrown out by fellow senators, who held that corrupt practices had been employed to gain his seat. Within five years $2,500,000 in assets had evaporated from his bank and he was down to a borrowed $10,000. Thereafter the weight of condemnation kept him in oblivion. Teddy Roosevelt had refused to eat with him.

Borah had stung him with verbal attacks. Only occasionally, and only in his own state, did he appear. His last public gesture was made a few months ago when he said he was going to help rid his beloved country of the curse of prohibition.

Ross S. Sterling, governor of Texas, who made millions in oil, decides there is too much of the stuff. A successful businessman, he can hardly be sympathetic with the bulk of the eccentricities of his neighbor, Oklahoma's Alfalfa Bill, but he follows the latter's bold lead and calls out the troops to cap all wells within the Lone Star state.

If this action brings back prosperity, Texas will congratulate themselves again for having picked Sterling last year, when J. A. Ferguson was making a last effort to reinstate her impeached spouse. And Governor Sterling will probably tardily concede he did right in allowing himself to be drafted into a $4,000 a year job.

A Mason, a Prohibitionist, a fond parent of children, and never a politician. He was mostly too busy hunting money. In that quest he quit the farm at 21, to run an oyster sloop, and after a year to his ever lasting luck, got into oil. Since then he has taken on a couple of newspapers and devotes much time to furthering a Texas good roads movement. Physically he still shows, at 58, the benefits of his early practice with a plow. He is big, solid, with a Napoleonic haircut and a Napoleonic short, thick neck. He can act Napoleonic, too, as witness his current oil order.

If this country does, finally, fatten expectant Chinese with some of its surplus wheat, John Earl Baker, his agent, will be the first to have his name prominently placed at the head of the table as director of the feast. Tarrying in his birth state of Wisconsin only long enough to make himself an authority on railroad management, John Earl Baker hustled off to China at a comparatively early age and has had a thumb in the principal ples there ever since.

Now at no more than 51, he has placed behind his big, hardy features a handsome record of Chinese achievement 16 years long. And although his official association with the nation has always been linked with its railroads, the record includes a little bit of everything, like the chop suey you must leave China to buy. He has fixed up the finances of various provinces and has devised customs regulations. And of prime importance now, he had always been there when American money was being spent for famine relief. China appreciates his services. As far back as 1915 he owned a third class order of the bountiful harvest. Since 1922 any invitation to a masquerade has found him supplied with the second class cash, to boot.

BLACK CREEK MAN HURT WHEN CARS COLLIDE

Roy Muller, route 2, Black Creek, suffered a fractured neck and severe cuts about the face and hands about 7:30 this morning, when the driver of a Ford touring car, which was driving on Highway 47 at Twelve Corners, Muller was driving his small car from a cheese factory on to the highway and Fisher was going south when the two machines collided. The smaller car was pushed about 75 feet along the road and thrown against a pole. Fisher's car went through a school yard tore down a fence and came to rest against the tree. The smaller car was completely demolished while the larger car also was badly damaged. Fisher escaped injury. Charles Steff, county motorcycle officer, investigated the accident.

Miss Helen Mueller is spending a few days in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Desreux, Chicago, and Mrs. Della Desreux, Green Bay, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Baumann, 303 N. Front.

MRS. LA FOLLETTE TO BE BURIED FRIDAY AT WISCONSIN CAPITAL

Widow of "Fighting Bob" Dies After Operation at Washington

ly refused in favor of her son who was elected. Last November she saw Philip elected to the governorship.

For years Mrs. LaFollette urged her husband to bring down to date his autobiography. It was published with the family history up to 1912. When he died without having found time for the undertaking, she determined to present the whole picture of his life.

Thus the widow who withdrew from public life soon after the death of her husband died in a virtual seclusion during the last few years. Living with the young senator until his marriage this year, she spent hours at her typewriter.

Madison.—(R)—Belle Case LaFollette, who with her late husband, Senator Robert Marion LaFollette, founded a political faith and a political family in Wisconsin will rest in the soil of her native state, in which the Progressive theories have found such deep root.

Her sons, followers in the footsteps of their father to political fame, through her direction, were too broken after leaving her death bed, but their did announce that the body will be brought to the side of the "boy" with whom she graduated from the University of Wisconsin and with whom she climbed to lasting political fame.

Mrs. LaFollette laid down the tools of the political strategist, the political economist, the author, the editor and the mother when she lost life yesterday.

She was known as "The Counselor" or not only of "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, the late senator, but of "Young Bob" the present senator, and "Phil" the governor of Wisconsin. "Old Bob" credited her with having helped him win many of his battles.

Her studies of political economy, at home and abroad, were widely read by "Bill" and "Phil". Her opposition to war was as strong as that of her late husband.

From her hands passed the author's pen that was writing, chiefly a biography of LaFollette. Her editorship ceased in 1929 after she finally abandoned "LaFollette's Magazine," turning its national mailing list to the newer "Progressive" weekly paper.

But it was as a mother that "Bob" and "Phil" mourned her today. They recalled how she had instilled in them the LaFollette theory of government that they might carry on the works of their famous father.

They recalled how she sacrificed whatever political ambitions she may have entertained when she was offered the nomination as a candidate for her husband's place in the senate. Methods of exchange in other cities are being investigated and the best plan may be incorporated here.

ST. PAUL CHURCH TO ERECT BOILER ROOM
A boiler room and smoke stack, the latter to be 65 feet high, will be built by St. Paul Lutheran congregation on its property at 218 E. Franklin, according to a permit taken yesterday in the office of John Weiland, building inspector. The boiler room will be built on the school buildings. The structures will be of brick and reinforced concrete, and will cost $1,000.

Another permit issued yesterday was to Fred Kranhold, 1444 W. Prospect, garage and tool shed to cost $500.

FIREMEN REPAINTING THEIR HEADQUARTERS

Good progress was being made by firemen this week in repainting their headquarters. Both floors of the department house are being painted with a lighter gray paint than now covers the interior walls and ceilings. The work of painting was preceded by a thorough washing of the walls and ceilings. It is expected about a week.

Police From Four Cities Seek "Telephone Burglars"

Police of four cities are joining in a search for a "telephone burglar" who is believed to have committed crimes in each of these cities in the last three or four weeks. The first instance of his operations were noted here last Saturday when the burglar took about $40 in cash from the Treasury Box, a gift shop on the second floor at 128 E. College-ave. The burglar works with an accomplice, who makes a telephone call to a place nearby and causes the clerk or proprietor of the place where the burglary is to be committed to be called out. This happened here when the proprietor of the Treasury box was called into the hall to the telephone. The burglar then slipped into the shop and looted the cash drawer. Similar burglaries have been successful in Menasha, Madison and Green Bay. Police believe the same party is responsible for all the robberies because the method used has been the identical in each case.

ONLY SERVICE WINDOWS TO CLOSE AT 4 O'CLOCK

Many patrons of the Appleton post office misunderstand the new arrangement under which service windows at the post office will be closed hereafter at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoons, according to Emmery Greenke, postmaster. The closing of the service windows at 4 o'clock, the postmaster explained, doesn't mean that all mail service is stopped at that time. Letters dropped into the boxes are dispatched as usual while mail coming into the office after 4 o'clock is distributed to the boxes. The reason for closing the windows at 4 o'clock is to enable the postal authorities here to give all the employees a chance to take advantage of the new 44-hour week for postal workers.

FUTURE LAWYERS OF NAVY GO TO HARVARD

Washington.—(AP)—The navy hereafter will send its embryonic lawyers to Harvard at Cambridge. Naval and marine corps officers, who sought training for the legal division have attended George Washington or Georgetown universities here while on duty at the navy department. Complaints that the law students handed a part of the court martial cases resulted in the change. A number of aeronautical and engineering officers take post graduate courses at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MILKMEN MAY START BOTTLE EXCHANGE

A meeting of Appleton milk dealers to discuss the question of bottle exchange will be called soon if plans now being considered by dealers, the deputy city health officer, and others are carried to completion.

Under city ordinance milk can be delivered by a company only in the company's bottles. Because housewives often exchange the bottles, they get into the hands of other milk men, exchange has been suggested. Methods of exchange in other cities are being investigated and the best plan may be incorporated here.

ARREST GRAND CHUTE MAN TWICE IN 2 DAYS

John Calmes, town of Grand Chute farmer, was in the county jail this morning awaiting arraignment in municipal court for the second time in two days on charges of drunkenness. Calmes was arrested the first time Monday night by Sheriff John Lappen at his home. He was taken into court Tuesday afternoon and sentenced to serve a day in jail. On learning that Calmes had already been in jail almost a day the judge ordered him released on promise to behave for about 10 days. Last night, however, Edward Lutz, undersheriff, was called to the Calmes home where he again arrested Calmes on a charge of being drunk.

CROWD HEARS BAND IN REQUEST PROGRAM

Another large crowd last night heard the concert played by the 120th field artillery band at Pierce park. Warm weather and the fact that the band offered a place of relief helped swell the attendance.

The evening's program featured many numbers requested by followers of the band. Encore numbers were popular song hits. Three numbers which proved especially interesting to the crowd were the overture "Morning, Noon and Night," "The Golden Dragon" and "The Red Mill," the latter by Victor Herbert.

NO PROTESTS OVER WATER ASSESSMENTS

Assessment of benefits and damages for water projects was held in several streets in Appleton were approved by the board of public works Tuesday evening at the city hall. The mains are for N. Alvin-st, N. Erbst, West-ave, and N. Richmond-st. Although the meeting was a public hearing no one appeared to protest the assessments.

JEWELERS' ASSOCIATION TALKS OVER PROBLEMS

The Fox River Jewelers association met for a 6 o'clock dinner and closed session session at Conway hotel Tuesday night. John Konrad, Oshkosh, president of the group, directed the discussion on the betterment of the jewelry business. This group meets three times a year. The next meeting will be held in Oshkosh in October.

PHILATELISTS GUESTS OF APPLETON SOCIETY
J. Max Golding and W. Herman Wasmann of Chicago were guests of W. B. Schaefer and several other members of the Appleton Philatelic society Tuesday night at an informal dinner at Conway hotel. Mr. Golding is noted for his collection of a mail cover stamps, supposed to be one of the best in the country. Mr. Wasmann also has a large stamp collection.

APPLETON SCHOOLS REOPEN FOR YEAR IN 19 MORE DAYS

Only 19 more days! No more fishing beside a quiet tree on the river, no mornings of baseball on the vacant lot or play on the pikes in caves under the back porch, no more swims and hikes and games of run-sheep-run with the neighborhood kids, even the dog will have to be tied up in the backyard after a summer of fun, all because school starts in a little over two weeks hence. By Sept. 8, every public school in the city will be a shining welcome to Appleton children, with polished windows, renovated basements and polished school desks. Every building in the city has been repaired, scrubbed and polished to the brightness of a new penny, waiting to greet the young pawns, doors to reluctant vacationers for another year of business.

ROUTINE BUSINESS ON COUNCIL DOCKET

Will Be Asked to Approve Installation of New Street Lights

Reports from various committees, a letter from the chamber of commerce asking appointment of five aldermen to a chamber committee to study the parking problem in Appleton, and a petition asking new street lights on S. Onward-st in front of the city hall, are among matters which will be taken up by the common council at its meeting tonight. Among the committee reports to be heard will be that of the street and bridge committee, which will ask the council to approve Sept. 8 as the first day on which rubbish collections will take place. The collection is in accordance with a resolution passed by the council last March.

Considerable discussion of the parking situation in Appleton has taken place during the last few months and the chamber of commerce made a survey of facilities. The chamber committee has reached a point where it is ready to carry the discussion further, and it is seeking the aid of five aldermen in the work.

Because the cable for street lights in front of the city hall has regularly been in need of repair and because the present lights are of the old type and not like those on College-ave, suggestion has been made that the cables be relaid and new lights be installed. Two posts like those on College-ave are available, it is said.

GANDHI STAND MAY OPEN WAY TO CONFERENCE

Mahatma Still Doubtful About His Departure to London Conclave

Bombay, India — (P) — Viceroy Willingdon and Sir Ernest Holt, governor of Bombay, were in telegraphic communication today in regard to Mahatma Gandhi's latest offer to go to London provided the government holds an impartial inquiry into alleged breaches in the Delhi truce.

Gandhi's decision to narrow down his previous conditions are regarded as having immensely improved his chances to participate in the second round table conference, although the Mahatma himself still entertains doubts regarding his departure.

It was learned that the government is disposed to sanction such an inquiry provided the nationalist leader does not insist that every minor dispute arising out of the terms of the truce shall be subject to such investigation in the future. The government feels this would indefinitely prolong the controversy.

In any case, some move by the viceroy, who now is in Calcutta, is expected tonight or tomorrow. He is said to have been favorably impressed with Gandhi's statement at Ahmedabad that "whether relief is granted through a board of arbitration or an impartial, acceptable inquiry is immaterial; that there is not the slightest desire to humiliate or embarrass the government; that the only desire is to get justice, and that such justice may be after the government's manner but it must be justice that will be acknowledged as such by those who are striving for it."

Lord Willingdon, however, is understood not to look with favor on Gandhi's statement that "the government must, if the Delhi pact is not to be regarded as a nullity, recognize that between the people and the government the Nationalist congress is an intermediary."

The government frequently pointed out to Gandhi in lengthy correspondence published last week that the state cannot recognize any outside institution as standing between itself and the people, especially in the matter of the collection of land revenue and other duties obligatory upon them.

ASSAULTS WAR RUMOR

Ahmedabad, India — (P) — Mahatma Gandhi today characterized as "a malicious, deliberate lie" a dispatch printed abroad to the effect that the Nationalist congress was preparing for war and that the peasants had been urged not to pay the government any more taxes than they could afford.

"On the contrary," said Gandhi, "instructions have been sent all over India that the Delhi pact must scrupulously be observed and nobody must disobey any government order without permission of the congress. We shall loyally honor every condition of the Delhi truce unless the provincial government forces us to take the defensive."

Betty Coed Steps Aside For Empress Elizabeth

New York — (P) — Betty Coed will have to be called Elizabeth this year. Fall clothes have a grown-up air and the wearer of the new Renaissance fashions will be called upon to affect the poise, the coquetry and the sophistication of an Empress. Eugene or a Catherine de Medici. Already the trunks are being pulled out and the daughter of the house is talking clothes to the family provider.

Society "rushing parties" will have the semblance of court salons with plumes, lace and satins high-spots of style. Black satin in sleek lines, with buckled pumps, short gloves, polka bags and velvet or felt hats bedecked with plumes, bows or cock-feathers will be the prevailing mode for afternoon social functions.

Sunday night supper gowns will be of velvet in black or royal and sapphire blue trimmed with fur, lace or metallic cloth.

Nubby knit waders, sheer woolsens, and jersey in solid, high, clear colors will be popular for campus and daytime wear. Two-tone stripes and plaids are favored, too.

These will be fashioned in two or three piece suits or in one-piece dresses to be worn with short jackets of suede, or the more durable furs.

Short coats for Saturday jaunts or football games are of luxuriously soft, loose woven weaves and generally with deep collars of fox, or wide collars of lamb or caracul.

Fur coats for informal wear are of leopard, kid, raccoon or muskrat. The college girl will insist on sophisticated evening clothes rather than the ingenuities of three or four years ago. She will want satins or velvets designed to swathe her girlish figure in a vampish manner. They must be long, low of décolletage and sleeveless.

Jewelry for the younger girl is simpler this year, but richer. For daytime wear, mannish metal bracelets one and a half or two inches wide, huge carved stone rings and metal chain necklaces are being shown.

Pajamas are most important. They have an especial place at the dormitory "gossip fests," so dear to the college girl's heart. New pajamas are one-piece affairs with metal rope belts and are of printed velvet or rich clinging satin.

FLOWER DIVISION TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Final details for the fall flower show will be made at the meeting of the Flower and Garden division at 730 Friday night in the offices of the chamber of commerce. This is the last meeting of the group before the show, which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 and 30, in the Armory.

ASSOCIATIONS HAVE IDEAL PLANS FOR FINANCING HOMES

Prospective Buyer or Builder Can Borrow and Become Share Holder

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
New York — Plans under which building and loan associations make loans to their members vary greatly in detail and all of them cannot be described here. An example will, however, give a general idea of the operation.

In the first place, the prospective buyer or builder of a home must have a cash margin to begin with. He cannot borrow from the building and loan on mortgage the total cost of land and improvements any more than he could negotiate a loan from a bank on that basis. He can secure a higher percentage of the appraised value of the property from the building and loan than he could from any other institution, because of the amortization condition on which all loans are made.

Suppose then he plans a property which with improvements, will cost $5,000 and he has $1,400 cash on which to start. He borrows on mortgage from the building and loan $3,600 in the same fashion he would from a bank or mortgage company. Then he subscribes to sufficient shares in the building and loan association the maturity value of which would equal the amount of the loan, in this case $3,600. He pays monthly a sum which includes interest on the loan at the agreed upon rate and the amount of dues the number of shares he has subscribed for require. If the maturity value is $200 a share he will have to have 18 shares.

In this case, under the so-called serial plan the dues would amount to $18 a month plus interest on the loan. The profits of the association are divided among the holders of the shares pro-rata as they accumulate, with the result that, according to the experience of the average association working under this plan, the shares would mature in a little over 11 years. There is no guarantee that maturity will be reached at any particular time. It depends entirely on profits, but they are fairly stable.

When the 18 shares to which this borrower has subscribed mature, then being valued at $3,600, the owner assigns them to the association and the mortgage is cancelled. The home is paid for and the transaction complete. The advantage to the borrower is that he has paid for his property by monthly installments and at the same time has received his share of the earnings of the association, which earnings come from the interest on his loan as well as the interest on the loans of all the other borrowers. He is a partner in the mortgage business as well as a customer of the mortgage house.

Across the Kalahari Desert in a Ford

THIS is the story of 3500 miles of grueling automobile travel through the sandy coastal region of Southwest Africa, across the Kalahari Desert and through N'Gamiland.

Five naturalists, representing the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, three South Africans and three native boys were in the de Schauensee expedition. Seldom do white men visit this country. Seldom do white men penetrate to the last remote stronghold of the fast disappearing African Bushman. The trip was made in a Ford car and three Ford trucks.

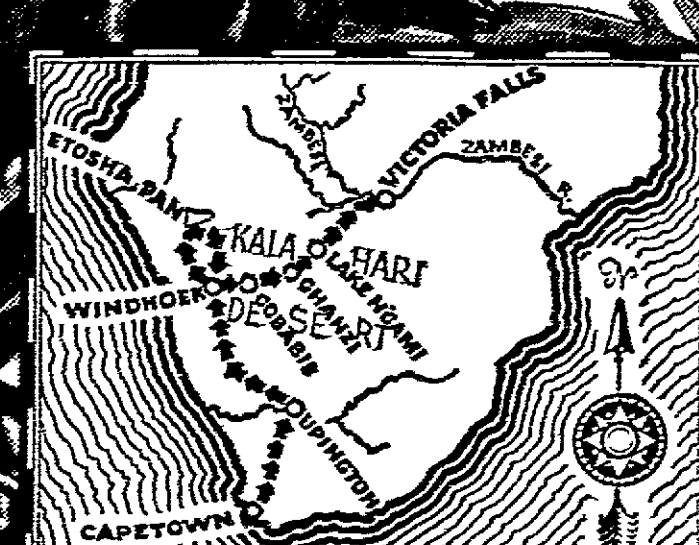

Traveling over rough, irregular trails—leaving those trails to crash through tangled, thorny underbrush—traversing dry, parched areas that had not seen rain in years—the Fords made a remarkable record for stamina and reliable mechanical operation. Through days of summer heat and nights of freezing cold, on occasions when the water supply was almost gone and delay would have been fatal, the Fords went steadily on and on. And, finally, when the long trip was over, they were sold at good prices in the little village of Mann.

Never were sales made under similar conditions. The purchasers knew what the Fords had been through and sought proof of good condition after so many miles of strenuous travel.

So they were driven along the river trail, turned abruptly off into deep sand-beds—extricated without need of help—and subjected to other tests in this land of difficult transportation. Sales were quickly made after such a demonstration.

This is but one of many interesting stories about the ability of the Ford to stand up under the severest driving conditions. The extra demands of long, hard travel reveal the high quality of its materials and extraordinary care in manufacturing. Whether you buy a Ford for a scientific expedition along rough African trails, or for every-day motoring in a busy city, you will develop a very real and definite pride in its stamina and dependability.

For here is a car that needs no coddling—no sparing from the rough places and the hard jobs. An important consideration in its designing was the realization that it would be used by millions of people, in different ways, in every section of the world. So it is made with a reserve of strength and power beyond the needs of the average day.

That is the Ford policy. That is the secret of the long-lived satisfactory performance of the Ford. Every part is built to endure—to give you many thousands of miles of economical, care-free motoring.

LINDY'S VISIT IMPORTANT TO JAPAN AND U. S.

May Help Erase Ill-feeling Aroused by Herndon- Pangborn Episode

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington (CPA) — Officials here are looking forward to the visit of Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh to Tokyo as an event of diplomatic importance in the relations of the United States and Japan.

Although the trip was conceived as a vacation for the famous fliers it happens now that the visit may tend to erase some of the ill-feeling that arose over the arrest of the two "round the world fliers" who took photographs of Japanese fortifications.

Very little has been said here about the episode but it is nevertheless a matter of considerable regret that the Japanese government should have counteracted the charge that the fliers were taking pictures for the purpose of selling military information. Such a construction of what the fliers did can only mean, it is felt here, that the Japanese are still thinking in military terms in respect to the United States.

For the last few years, in fact ever since the 1922 arms conference, the thought in Washington has been to build up the idea of peace in the relations of Japan and the United States so strongly that war talk would subside. It has disappeared very largely and that is why the Japanese action is considered to have done more harm than good to Japanese-American relations, particularly in arousing those in this country who have insisted the Japanese constantly think of American as a potential enemy.

"May Undo Wrong"

With the arrival of Colonel Lindbergh the Japanese have an opportunity to undo much of the wrong done through their treatment of the other American fliers.

Any discussion of Japanese-American relations cannot fail to take into account the mistakes made by the congress of the United States in discriminating against Japanese immigration when the way was open through the quota system to accomplish the same purpose without wounding the feeling of the Japanese. Lately the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has sponsored a proposal to undo what congress did by excluding Japanese. These efforts all tend toward a better relationship between Japan and the United States.

Hence the Lindbergh visit is expected to accomplish something almost as important in diplomacy as did the lone flier in his historic dash to France when Franco-American relations were characterized by outbursts of ill-humor toward Americans in Paris.

There are indications that the Japanese government recognizes now the implications of the Herndon episode and will endeavor in the Lindbergh visit to show its good will not merely to two Americans but to the people of the United States whose character and purposes the visitors symbolize.

RADIO COMMITTEE OPPOSES APPEAL IN MERGER CASE

University Body Hopes to Make Most Effective Use of Its Powers

Madison (CP) — The University of Wisconsin radio committee today recommended that no appeal should be taken from the federal radio commission's refusal to permit the university's station here, WISN, the department of men's station at Stevens Point, to combine. The report was signed by Prof. H. L. Ewbank, chairman of the committee, and Edward Bennett, technical director of WISN.

After saying the university has the pioneer educational radio station in the country, having carried on broadcasting since 1920, the report said that since the combination has been refused, Wisconsin should make the most effective use of its powers under the existing licenses of the two state stations.

"This means that the department of agriculture and markets must be provided with wire connections between its headquarters in Madison and its station in Stevens Point," the report said. "It means that all the state commissions and board having educational and informational functions must seek to discover the effective uses to which they can put the radio facilities of stations WISN and WISL. It means that the programs originating at the university should be sent over the agriculture and markets' wire and broadcast from Stevens Point as well as Madison."

"The issue should be squarely faced," the report continued later. "Under the radio act some agency in Wisconsin is entitled to one of the high-power channels now allotted to stations in the city of Chicago. The objective of the radio committee is to obtain this cleared channel for the educational and informational agencies in Wisconsin, rather than let it pass into the hands of some commercial enterprise."

"Two other recommendations were embodied in the report."

One advised the purchase of the land, buildings and towers that formerly were part of WISN, now fused with WISL here. A second suggested rebuilding of the transmitter of the report said the scale of expenditure to Wisconsin last year for operation of the stations was less than one-half cent an inhabitant, and that if connecting lines were built between Madison and Stevens Point, the cost would be less than $55,000, or less than two cents an inhabitant a year.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LEO"

If August 20th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., and 7:40 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Several astrological commands and hints may be given on August 20th. Do not take any physical health, or financial risks! Do not make any real estate deals, or enter into law disputes! Do not neglect letter obligations, as it is an auspicious time both for business and social correspondence!

The child born on this August 19th will have a "know-it-all" disposition until the world has taught it many valuable lessons. It will be a keen observer, and will reap more knowledge through its eyes, its human contacts, and through practical experience, than through books.

You are a very self-contained individual. Your adaptability makes it easy for you to accommodate yourself to all sorts of conditions, and all types of people. There are many sides to your character, upon which you can draw, or display at your will. You are at ease with men and women of the world, or you can be king or queen of jesters amongst merry makers. You can be at one with scholars, philosophers and students, or you can enthusiastically hurray on the sports field. You can be happy alone with your own thoughts or with your mind buried in the contents of a book; or you can be happy in the midst of a babbling throng.

Not only are your social amenities diversified, but your commercial talents are numerous. You will doubtless try your hand in more than one field of endeavor, and will not put all your eggs in one basket. Travel appeals to you, and your horoscope reveals that you may do so, with safety, and to advantage. You are not without your weaknesses, and one of them is your constant desire for change. You will never be wedded to any job, and you find few people indispensable to your happiness. You have an inquisitive nature, and you are clever at drawing people out. You are very close-mouthed about your own personal affairs.

RINGLING CIRCUS IN CITY TOMORROW ON BADGER-AVE LOT

First of Four Long Trains to Reach Appleton at Sunrise

The circus—the "big show"—as the Ringling and Barnum and Bailey affair is always referred to—will be delivered on the "lot" at Badger-ave. early tomorrow morning—the biggest array of spangles, gilt, glitter, sawdust rings, tents, horses and animals goodness knows how many pounds of elephant meat, clowns, riders, gymnasts, and all else that was ever put together and labelled a circus.

At midnight tonight it will be Appleton bound and the first of the four long circus trains is scheduled to come chugging into town with the first streaks of dawn from Manitowoc.

Thirty tents comprise the circus encampment, the main tent beneath which the wonders and marvels of the program are revealed to pop-eyed youngsters and their elders seating 15,000 people. The menagerie tent is but a trifle smaller and shelters a natural history display. A dozen private dressing tents are pitched for such stars as the Codonas, the Colleanos, the sisters Riffe-nach and others. Even the clowns have private dressing quarters where they can iron the wrinkles out of their smiles. Approximately 1,800 people dine three times a day in the huge dining tents. The circus kitchens boast the "world's champion flapjack baker," and the "pearl divers," as the humble individuals who wash dishes are called.

Five tents are needed wherein to stable the hundreds of horses carried by this circus. Private tents are erected for the circus physician and lawyer.

There's a blacksmith shop running five forges where kids can "look in at the open door."

It's a veritable self-contained community of 1500 people, this circus of the Ringling's, containing within itself everything necessary to the carrying on of life as it flits about over the country.

Largest Menagerie

The menagerie is the biggest ever taken on tour. Here one may see a herd of 40 elephants, a family of giraffes, two rhinoceroses, groups of chimpanzees and orang outangs; a saddle-back tapir; a huge hippopotamus; over a score of camels; thirty zebras; the only African Gemsbok antelope in the country; Edwin, largest tiger in captivity; lioness, gnus, ostriches, and a big snowing of "cats" including lions, tigers, panthers, hyenas and other types. Goliath, monster sea elephant is exhibited at each performance by making a triumphal journey around the track in his own personal and private conveyance.

Here are some of the features of the main tent program: the Orland-Mara sensation, an act in which Orland Mara, the female member of the duo, clinging to his back, makes a precipitous dive from the dome of the tent to alight in a narrow chute below before sliding safely to the track; the brothers Rentsch from the Berlin Circus Busch; the Castellanos troupe of acrobats; Hugo Zucchini, who is blown from the cannon's muzzle at each performance; the daring Walekendas troupe on the high wire; Con Colanaro who comes out on the high wire; Alfred Colina who shows a triple somersault in mid air; the dashing Leontis, who in a madcap aerial act the famous Ella Brennan; the Raffanach sisters, Hungarian riders; Bernice Brown and Anna Louise Hutchinson, mistresses of the world; Capt. Tiger's five group of trained seals; five groups of wise old elephants with a new bag of tricks and scores of other acts and features, all of them of class and distinction else they could find no place upon a Ringling-Barnum program. Throughout tomorrow tickets may be bought at Schlimm Bros. drug store at the same prices charged at the ticket wagons at the show grounds.

WHITEMAN AND 4TH WIFE TO CUT SHORT THEIR HONEYMOON

Denver (CP) — Paul Whiteman, music master, and his fourth wife, the former Margaret Livingston, red haired screen actress, today planned to cut short their Colorado honeymoon and return tomorrow to Chicago.

A desire to remain near his old home was impossible, Whiteman said, because of a music engagement.

The marriage yesterday at the country home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilberforce J. Whiteman was simple, with no music, no flower girl and only 12 persons in the room, including the bridal couple. Dr. George B. Vosburgh of Denver, read the vows.

But for a short time preceding the ceremony Whiteman paced back and forth, smoked cigarettes and scanned the road leading to Denver. Miss Livingston was late for her first marriage ceremony. Finally she arrived with her family, 23 minutes past the scheduled time for the service.

"It's my first experience, Paul, and I wanted to look my prettiest," she explained. Five minutes later the marriage ceremony had been performed.

"If we are not happy," Whiteman told newspapermen after he had embraced his wife, "there'll be no one to blame but myself."

Whiteman announced he had recently been appointed chief musical director for the National Broadcasting company in the western United States, a territory embracing stations on that chain between Chicago and the Pacific coast.

Mrs. Whiteman said she would remain in motion pictures if it doesn't interfere with her husband's plans, adding, "If it does, I'll leave the screen."

FAVORS AERIAL PATROL TO FIGHT SMUGGLING

Duluth, Minn. (CP) — An aerial patrol to guard against the smuggling of liquor into the United States along the Minnesota border will be recommended to the treasury department officials by Curtis M. Johnson, customs collector for the port of Duluth.

Collector Johnson's proposal is for the loan of five planes from the army, and providing for a centrally located radio station between Pigeon River, Minn., and Pembina, N. D. The planes would be stationed 150 miles apart.

Mr. Johnson said the planes also could be used to guard against illegal entry of aliens and could be used by the federal forestry service in locating fires. He will submit his proposal to officials at Washington next week.

KARAKUL SHEEP TO BE ON EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Madison (CP) — Karakul sheep will be among the attractions at the state fair at West Allis, Aug. 29 to Sept. 4, the state department of agriculture and markets has announced.

The sheep "are the sheep of royalty in the Asiatic interior," the department announced, "and for centuries the Chinese Turkestan Karakul cap has had almost the same significance to the people of that territory as the anvil Roman purple possessed in the Roman empire."

According to state fair officials, Karakul's "mill around in a circle and can be seen weaving in and out in a constant turmoil similar to the perpetual movement of a swarm of bees" when caught in a snow storm or sand storm or attacked by dogs.

Glowing Tributes Paid To Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette

Madison —(P)— Among the statements issued in connection with the death of Belle Case LaFollette, widow of the late U. S. Senator Robert M. LaFollette, were the words of Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber, Soughton, friend of the family for years, and President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. Huber, acting as governor during the absence of Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, said:

"The untimely sacrifice of Mrs. LaFollette for the people of Wisconsin will always be a gem among her jewels. From young womanhood until the day of her death the welfare of the people was ever on her mind. Like her distinguished husband her life was always among the people. She shared the ambitions of the poor, the aspirations of those who would make the world better for humanity. She never sought the limelight but was always in the service of those who would lift the heavy burden of the races. An enemy of war as a wasteful sacrifice of life, her devotion to the cause of peace has made great advances through her many efforts."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank telephoned to the governor last night: "Mary and I are heart-broken at the news of your dear mother's death. We know how much she was part and parcel of your life. We have both had to meet the same tragic loss and while we know that words seem a kind of impotence at such a time we want you to know we are feeling for you and with you. She was a lovely and lovable spirit." and the memory of her is a magnificent inheritance. Our hearts are with you and Bob and Fola and Mary."

Mrs. John M. Blaine, wife of United States Senator Blaine of Wisconsin said:

"The sudden death of Mrs. LaFollette will shroud this state in deep grief and sorrow. In my long years of acquaintance with her I learned some of the characteristics that made her a powerful influence over the destinies of this state. Her keen and sympathetic understanding of women and of all mankind led her to right thinking and wise conclusions."

"No one knew better the hopes and dreams of men and women and no one better interpreted the voice of those who toil, suffer and sacrifice everywhere. Therein lies the secret of her power in the companionship and constructive cooperation with her husband, Sen. LaFollette in his many battles for mankind."

Many messages brought eulogies of Mrs. LaFollette to her family. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan said: "She was one of the rare characters in the history of motherhood and citizenship."

Senators Davis of Pennsylvania, Glass of Virginia, and Moses of New Hampshire were among the first to send condolences and Senator Cogan of Colorado said "She was a rare beautiful spirit. Her loss is a national loss."

The sympathy of Justice Brandeis of the supreme court was expressed in a message signed "Uncle Louis."

The widow of Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, dean of the house and the dean this year, and a comrade of the elder LaFollette in early Progressive battles, expressed her sorrow.

Congressman Bloom of New York and Representative LaGuardia of New York, and Mrs. LaGuardia also sent messages.

Solomon Levitan, state treasurer, said: "I have known Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., for nearly half a century. Always from the time she accompanied her husband when he campaigned in the early years of his career, to the end of that glorious life of the senior Robert M. LaFollette, was she the ideal companion, helpmate and counselor. She was the ideal mother to her children, guiding them and inspiring them to live for the bigger things in life."

"With the passing of Mrs. LaFollette, the Progressive cause has lost a pillar of strength. She was one of the founders of this great movement which began in Wisconsin, and had spread throughout the United States. But as the ideal of womanhood, as a pioneer for the establishment of justice to her fellow men, Mrs. LaFollette will live forever."

John J. Hannan, president of the board of control and one-time secretary to the late Sen. LaFollette, said: "In my judgment, no woman of Wisconsin has left as deep an impress upon the state as has Belle Case LaFollette. An ardent, able and effective advocate of the equal rights of women as citizens of our state and country, she was no seeker of place or distinction. However, as the true worth of the life of a woman is gauged by the family, her halo is her family, her daughters, charming, wholesome, talented, and her two illustrious sons, who in their own right have achieved and merited the confidence of the people and intellectually and morally have measured to the highest expectations of the father and the mother, who sacrificed for them."

Play Lot Is Good Place For Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

This is the time when children live out of doors. The sun pours warmth and healing into their bodies the long days through. Many children have no place to play. All children need play space that has been set aside for their use. How are we to get it?

Some of the back yards if you can. Sometimes you cannot do this because the noise of the playing children hurls the grownup people. The backyard playgrounds, those made of united backyards, ought to be dedicated to little children only—the sand players and builders. The team games, the noisy activities of the children who about and howl and throw things must be apart from the houses. That means we use the vacant lots.

There are always vacant lots in the neighborhood that can be levelled a bit, cleared of rubbish and fitted for play. One lot will make a ball field; one will make a girls' playground; one can be set aside for swings and slides; one can be for gardens. A little study of the needs of the children, a survey of the vacant lots, and the full power of the Women's Clubs turned on the project—and the children are taken care of.

Not just as easy as that. Every step of the long way between the idea and the activity means time, work, money. But there is enough of them all, once the town decides they are needed. There are women with gifts for organization who can be asked for service. There are men who have the vision and the understanding that creates such a project. There are retired teachers, retired policemen, retired mothers and grandfathers, who can sustain the playgrounds once they are established. No hand need be purchased. The owner can lend it for the time it is in service. The school people, the health people, the nursing service, the baby people—all those interested in the healthy growth of childhood will rally to the call of the leader. Maybe the leader is you.

If there is a river or brook make them safe for children. All children should learn to love the water and learn to swim. Swimming is about the finest exercise a boy or girl can have. It is the summer's delight. Have a wading place for the little ones and a swimming place for the older ones.

The most delightful bathing houses ever I saw were made of branches of trees. The men had cut the brush from the sides of the lake and a handy man who loved the woods made rustic huts of twined branches. It was hard to get the children out of them long enough to sleep and eat.

Each neighborhood has its own possibilities. It has its own vacant lots. Many of them are covered with tin cans, and other rubbish. Happy children at play will be a great improvement to the landscape and real estate values. And they will relieve the mothers of a heavy load of care for the vacation periods.

COFFEE VARIES IN FLAVOR IF ROAST IS "HIGH" OR "LOW"

There is no way to know when a big batch of coffee is perfectly roasted. One batch may be "high," another "low," with the result that there is variation of flavor.

Hills Bros. overcome this uncertainty, with their radically different roasting process—Controlled Roasting. As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Positive control of heat during every berry to perfection—to the degree that insures a rich, full-bodied, unvarying flavor in every pound.

No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros. own process. Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans that keep it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from cans and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary cans, even if "air-tight," does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

ROCKET CHASES PLANES

San Diego—A new weapon to battle invasion of enemy airplane fleets has been proposed by Dr. Gustav Rasmus, San Diego inventor. This weapon, as suggested by Rasmus, would be in the form of a rocket bomb. The bombs would be launched automatically by electricity actuated by the sound of passing airplanes. Sensitive "ears" in the bomb would guide the bomb to the plane with unfailing accuracy. It would explode on coming in contact with the plane.

SUCH POPULARITY

New York —In the past four years the total mileage of mail and express carried by airplane has been increased eleven times. Passenger mileage during the same period has increased 110 times. Only in one year, 1929, did passenger mileage fail to double the previous year's figure.

Oysters Used In Test To Cure Rodents Of Anemia

Sayville, N. Y. —(P)— Chemistry connected up with the oyster business today at a ysterman's national convention here.

The oystermen looked at vivid green oysters alongside sleek white rats which by a touch of chemistry had been cured by the oysters of anemia. They listened to Dr. Treat B. Johnson of Yale university, tell how chemists already can make some kinds of food synthetically in laboratories and how chemistry is going to apply to oysters. They are delegates to the annual convention of the National Shellfish Association and the Oyster Grovers and Dealers Association of North America.

Green oysters and white—the latter the ordinary table variety—were fed to anemic rats by Dorothy V. Whipple and Opal M. Wolf of the Pease Laboratories of New York. The rat anemia resembled closely the human kind. In 16 weeks the oyster-eating rats recovered, but those on green oyster diet outstripped the white-oyster eater.

It was found also that the vivid green bivalve diet equalled liver as a cure for anemia in rats. The cause of the bright, color is not known surely, but is attributed to excess copper in the oyster.

Dr. Johnson, who is Sterling professor of chemistry at Yale, said: "Practically all the constructive organic units that enter into the molecular structure of the naturally occurring proteins, sugar and fats have been prepared synthetically. The chemist has gone one step further to obtain the very same active substances that actually function in nature's processes."

"In fact, it is practically possible today to construct a synthetic foodstuff in the laboratory which will supply the normal heat food requirements of a living organism."

"It now remains for the organic chemist to determine the molecular constitution of those regulatory biological principles which we classify under the general term vitamins. When he has established by chemical analysis and synthesis proof of structure of these elusive compounds, the chemist will have provided

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1931 by NEA Service, Inc.

SUE noticed that there was just one more page of Corrinne's wide-spread left to be read. The heavy white paper had made the envelope very bulky and required several postage stamps.

"Harry told me how sorry he was that I had accidentally upset the blooming waffle batter. Imagine! After my malice aforethought! But he was so nice about it I couldn't pretend that it was an accident. I told him I did it on purpose. And then, Sue, he very calmly told me that he had known it all the time.

"But it seems that Jim's wife once had a spell like that, and so did Howard's. They knew all about it. This scene kind of irritated Harry. Of course, Joe, not being married, didn't know anything about it. I'm probably one of the reasons why he'll avoid matrimony.

"Anyway, Harry and I didn't fight at all but I'm learning to make waffles now.

"I wish you would come home.

Corrinne."

Sue slipped the pages into the envelope, and put the envelope in to her pocketbook. I wish you would come home! That line kept ringing itself over in her mind. I wish you would come home! When she wanted to go home so badly. But she couldn't, she reminded herself. It was foolish to keep wanting something that you couldn't have. Like crying for the hunter's moon, when it was so far away that there wasn't a ladder long enough to reach it, though you could have climbed and climbed.

Over the raspberry ice that Sue had ordered for dessert, she pulled out Corrinne's letter for re-reading. As she unfolded the pages a new paragraph caught her eyes. She had left a few sheets in the envelope before. Now she read eagerly.

"Sue, I had this hunch of foolish chatter all ready to mail when I found out about your accident with Jean Brady. And to think I thought I had troubles. Are you sure you aren't hurt?"

"And right along with it I learned that our brother had finally come to his senses and married Sarah. He did it unexpectedly, too. It seems to run in the family. But, Sue, you can't stay there alone. It's absurd. Why don't you come back and live with us until Jack comes back? Visit us, I mean; it won't be very long. Harry thinks that you are a second cousin of the changelings anyway, and I want you so much. Please, Sue!"

"Oh, by the way, I saw Judge Thornton today. I talked to him for a minute—I decided to let by-bones be by-gones. When I asked about Jack he smiled a little. Then he said: 'I'm afraid that he's up against a pretty tough proposition out in the west. He's dealing with some unscrupulous men, from what I can gather. We both should have sent two men, not one, on the case.' He really seemed worried. Is the case so dangerous, Sue?"

Dangerous! Was it something concerning that, which Jack had wanted to tell her, Sue wondered. But she had seen Jack's picture in the paper, had seen him on the screen, Dangerous . . . She remembered the strange sensation, almost psychic, that she had when the movie fadeout had taken Jack away.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

BLAME FOR UNFORTUNATE MARRIAGE NOT LAID AT YOUNG HUSBANDS DOOR—WIFE MUST MAKE BEST OF IT

Dear Virginia Vane: I am nineteen years old and have two children. My husband is just my age, and has all he can do in these hard times to find a job. We both have to work hard, but this wouldn't be so bad if I loved him. I never cared for him. I married as soon as possible to get away from home which was unbearable. My father treated me brutally and has helped to make me hate all men. I don't know what to do with my life but I am so unhappy. Can't you help me?

NELLIE J.
My poor child it's pretty hard to have to make the best of things at nineteen, but there isn't anything else for you to do. It doesn't seem fair that you should pay so heavily for ignorance and folly of which most of us are guilty in our early teens. But the fact remains that you have helped to create a situation which can't be bettered unless you yourself face it and conquer it.

Neither you nor your husband are in a position to settle the matter so that you can both go your separate ways. You've got to work to keep a roof over your heads—and to care for your children. You can't consider your own personal side of the picture, even though it's human nature to do so. You must harden yourself to accept things as they are, and work steadily and doggedly to get your children started off right in life.

Try to think kindly of your husband. Try not to bear malice against him. That will make the situation easier for you. If you can find enough gentleness and sympathy in your heart for him, you can make life a great deal more bearable. You see, you're blaming him in your heart for all sorts of things which are not his fault. Because your father treated you cruelly you began married life with a distinct enmity against all men. That was enough to ruin the marriage from the start. Because you were so anxious to get away from home you married the first boy who came along not pausing to consider whether he was kind or good. You probably never even took the trouble to find out whether or not he WAS kind and generous. You just assumed that he was hopeless from every point of view. You must really make a determined effort now to see his good points, to think of him as a human being, and not as the more unpleasant side of your daily life.

Maybe he's unhappy too. Maybe he needs understanding and some show of sympathy. Perhaps if you concerned yourself a little with his happiness instead of thinking constantly of your own misery, you might find some joy in the world after all. Certainly your whole hope of achieving peace and tranquility is through your own mental attitude. If you don't change that, and realize the necessity of getting every ounce of happiness possible out of your present job, you'll do yourself and everyone around you the greatest harm. Be a brave girl and help yourself, since so much depends on you.

Better To Wait
Walter K. G.: You'll find life will go a great deal smoother for you after marriage. If you wait two years more instead of plunging into matrimony now when you're not in a position to undertake it. You and your fiancé are too young to embark on the matrimonial seas without sufficient preparation. You haven't the money, you're not free to do as you choose, and you might only wreck what could be a very happy life, if you start off under unfavorable circumstances. Those two years will pass quickly enough since you both have something to work and wait for, and they will give you an ever greater knowledge of each other. Don't be afraid of the long postponement. It will prove worthwhile in the end.

Ether N. W.: Thank you for your kind letter. You are honestly doing the only thing possible under these difficult circumstances. If there is any other phase of the problem you want to discuss with me, don't hesitate to write. I shall be glad to help if I can.

PALM EYES TO REST THEM AND RELIEVE STRAIN

BY ALICIA HART

Age often visits eyes first.

Some women, not realizing it, bend to their daily duties to keel, slander, sit to their nightly facial rites for their skin, brush their hair its quota of strokes, but let the poor old eyes alone.

Probably a surprisingly small proportion of women as a whole ever make the most of their eyes.

This season, especially, the eyes can be the appealing feature of the face. They always are the features gifted with magnetism. It is wicked not to cultivate them.

Eyes that are tired cannot be bright and shining. Rest them often. That is the answer to that. Palm them several times a day.

Wash them night and morning with an eye cup containing a good eye lotion or borax acid solution or mild salt solution.

To palm them you use the palms of your hands to shut out all light. As you do this, there is some flow of electricity or whatever you want to call it, from your palms into your eyes.

If you don't know how to palm your eyes, you don't know how it rests eyes. Place the bottom of the palm of one hand over each eye. Try to "see black" as you do this. Keep your hands there for as many seconds as you can. Relax and sink comfortably in your chair as you do so.

When you finish, rinse them both out with your eye cup. Then palm them again. Be sure to look at yourself carefully before you palm them. And again afterward.

Some women of older years need glasses and won't get them. This is a mistaken idea of what keeps you young. For eye strain induced by lack of glasses when you need them can become a serious menace to general health.

Fine lines between the eyes are the least of the bad results from eye strain.

Finally, you owe your eyes a nightly massage with soothing eye oils. They are not expensive, for a little goes a long way. Always stroke the lids and around the eyes very, very carefully. Stroke from the nose out to the corner above the eye, begin at the nose again and stroke out under the eye.

Eye pads are an inexpensive treat for yourself that will delight you if you don't know them, satisfy you if you do. You can buy commercial ones. Or make your own out of herbs. Even a wash cloth dipped out of hot water and applied over your eyes while resting helps. Alternate with cold water and the effect is much better.

Youth and beauty in eyes defy years, defy wrinkles and give some women charm forever. It is worth while giving your eyes the best attention in the world. (Copyright 1931, NEA Service Inc.)

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

When serving buttered vegetables, heat the vegetables until boiling and then add butter and let heat of vegetables melt the butter. If the butter is allowed to boil it is liable to have a bitter taste.

Use lukewarm water and borax to wash inside of your refrigerator. This keeps it sweet and clean; also a piece of charcoal on one of shelves absorbs all odors.

Add a few bread crumbs to scrambled eggs. It will improve the flavor and make the eggs go farther.

To remove coffee stains from linens mix an egg yolk with 1 tablespoon of cold water and rub on the stain; let dry and then wash out in warm soapsuds.

Use two spoons to turn a roast. A fork pierces the skin and allows juices to escape.

When pouring hot jelly, fruit or pickles into glass jars, stand the jar on a damp cloth and they will hardly ever crack. (Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Newspapers.)

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE OPENING LEAD OF A SINGLETON

AND SO you led a singleton. The reproach, pity and loathing sometimes heard in the voice of an opponent at the Bridge table, when this lead is made and results happily for the leader, is hard to describe and hard to understand. I confess that sometimes when accused of this crime, to which I admit my guilt, I feel somewhat as though I were confessing a great fondness for opium or a taste for second-story work.

The "tweak" lead gained its popularity from the name which dates back to Whist days. This term is, of course, based on a false premise, so the conclusion also is faulty.

A singleton, it might be said, is a term used in Contract to describe the holding when there is only one of a suit in the hand.

The idea that still seems to persist with certain players, that a singleton lead is unworthy of a game of the high standard of Bridge, should be dispelled once and for all. The fact that its use at times may not be consistent with good Bridge is another matter entirely.

To lead at random a singleton in an attempt to gain an extra trick is not good Bridge. The weight of responsibility which rests upon a leader in deciding upon an Opening or subsequent lead of a singleton is equally as great as that involved in deciding upon any other Opening or subsequent lead.

Before deciding upon the lead of a singleton, leader should consider carefully not only the advantages and disadvantages of such lead, but what interpretation partner may place upon it if led. If singleton held is in some suit other than one bid by partner, its lead, when logical lead would be a card of either own or partner's declared suit, makes such identification more or less doubtful.

Also, the conventional manner of number showing—fourth best from four or more, top card from three or less, to show the number of cards of suit held by leader—is an additional aid to interpretative skill in card reading. Frequently the denomination of the card led will mark it positively as a singleton, unless declared by false-carding, i. e., by playing an unnecessarily high card to trick, makes such identification more or less doubtful.

As heretofore stated, the question of whether or not to lead a singleton, either in partner's or some unbid suit, is not a matter of generalization, but of sound judgment in each individual instance, taking into consideration the bidding, the score, and the cards and particular type of hand held.

This hand, taken from actual play, may prove interesting and instructive in illustrating the use of the singleton lead with types of hands which arise in everyday play. It forcibly shows that this lead, when combined with alertness of mind and proper card reading by partner, will frequently bring about successful results.

In the first example, the symmetry of suit division is observable in the two singletons, one each held by West and East.

Three-fourths of the artificial flowers made in the United States are produced in New York.

Under these conditions the opportunity for effective use of the singleton lead is much greater than it would be otherwise.

South finally secured the contract at four spades after North had made a Forcing Takeout on the basis of his 2½ honor-tricks. A Forcing Takeout requires both partners to keep the bidding open until a game contract is reached. West opened his singleton diamond, a lead which would have been of little moment had it not been for the wise use which his partner made of his right to make the second lead.

East won the first trick with the Knave of diamonds and returned the 8 of clubs; a plainly indicated singleton, which Declarer won in Dummy and led a small spade. East jumped up with the Ace and led a small diamond, which West trumped and returned a club, which East trumped, thus saving the game.

This defense, quite simple when explained, depended for its success upon East's recognition not only of the 6 of diamonds as a singleton but its relation as a singleton to re-entry possibilities in West's hand to give East the desired ruff in clubs. Many players in East's position would not grasp this possibility or stop to think it out, but would blindly return either a low diamond or West to trump, or return the Ace and then a low diamond, hoping, if South trumped third round, that West might be able to over-trump.

A moment's thought on East's part should show the folly of this defense. With the high cards in sight, South's spade holding to conform to the requirements for an Opening bid, should enable him to shut out West, not only once but twice and still retain a sufficient number of high trumps to enable him to "top" opponent's remaining trumps and go game. Hence, East's return of his singleton club, instead of a diamond, was good play.

Today's Pointer

When partner has not made a bid, a Double of not more than one notrump nor more than two in a suit is a Takeout Double.

Likewise it is a Takeout Double when Opening Hand bids a suit (but not notrump) and doubles on next round after a pass by partner.

It is also a Double for a Takeout: When Doubler, having failed to get a response from his partner (who was released from bidding by an intervening suit or notrump bid) doubles again on next round.

COUNCIL VOTES TO BUY LOTS TO WIDEN STREET

Aldermen Also Decide to Cut Wood in Park for Poor Residents

Neenah—A short common council session was held Tuesday evening in the council chambers. Almost entirely void of aldermanic discussion, the 30 minute meeting was adjourned until 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, after routine business matters had been presented.

Mayor George E. Sande and H. S. Zenz, city clerk, were authorized to purchase lots 128 and 129 for the widening of Fourth-st. The work to be financed with money drawn from the general fund. Fifty feet on the front of the two lots is to be purchased so that the street will be uniform in width from Nicolet-blvd to E. Forest-st.

Upon request of Mrs. Helen K. Stuart, first ward alderman, the council decided to have a large number of trees in Riverside park cut down, the wood to be turned over to poor families for winter fuel. Mrs. Stuart and members of the poor committee are to meet this week with the park board to discuss the cutting of the trees. Mrs. Stuart also suggested that the work of cutting down the trees be given to unemployed men of the city.

Favor Permanent Grade
The council also voted in favor of the establishment of a permanent grade on E. Forest-st. between N. Clark and N. Commercial-sts. The street is to be paved after the council hears a final report on the assessment of benefits and damages to be given by the board of public works at the adjourned session next Wednesday night. The contract cannot be awarded to the Cape Construction Co., of Racine until the final report has been published and submitted to the council. The Cape Co. submitted low bid and will undoubtedly receive the contract, it was pointed out.

An ordinance governing the replating of Block 22 on the Palmers map was adopted. Another ordinance governing the vacating of 14 feet on Main-st between Torrey-st and the Soo Line railroad tracks was passed.

A petition of property owners on Hansen-st, was referred to the street, highway and bridge committee. Property owners are requesting that the street be graded and improved with stone. Six residents signed the petition.

A petition for construction of a sewer on W. North Water-st was referred to the board of public works. Fifteen property owners on the street signed the petition.

Other short reports from committees were adopted. The report of the board of public works on the assessment of benefits and damages on E. Forest-st, preparatory to improvement of the street was presented by Alderman E. J. Aylward of the Fifth ward.

PUBLIC WORKS AGAIN DEMAND COUNCIL STUDY

One Bid Submitted for Purchase of Shirk Property on Corner

Menasha—Aldermanic discussions again centered around public improvements at a meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. Only one heated debate, started when Alderman Grade questioned an action taken by Alderman McGilgan in the management of the municipal bathing beach, marred a peaceful session. Because of unfinished business, the meeting was adjourned until Thursday.

The only bid on the purchase and removal of the Shirk property, Nicolet-blvd at Oak-st, submitted by W. H. Burden, offered $1,000, and following a recess the street committee's recommendation that the bid be accepted was unanimously approved by the council. The building will be removed within 15 days. Disposal of the Hart buildings on Ahnaip and Oaksts, also necessary to facilitate Oak-st improvements, will be made, and the clerk was authorized to advertise for bids.

Although two aldermen were absent, and two council members cast dissenting ballots, a resolution authorizing the mayor and city clerk to purchase properties necessary for the extension of Manitowoc-st, north of Shirk-st, was approved by a six to two vote. The property is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Sauer, who will receive $900 for their land.

Appointed to Board
W. H. Miner and Hugh Gear were reappointed to the library board by Mayor N. G. Remmel, and the appointment sanctioned by the council. Both men, whose terms expired July 1, will serve for two years.

The only spirited arguments of the evening were started when Alderman Grade charged that Alderman McGilgan, who is in charge of operations at the Menasha municipal bathing beach, had purchased a second hand truck for use at the beach without the sanction of the council. Claiming that McGilgan had no right to purchase the truck, and that the first ward alderman was "running the council", Grade moved that McGilgan be forced to pay for the machine.

Mayor Remmel stated that the motion was out of order, and pointed out that with Alderman McGilgan absent, complete information on the matter was not immediately available. Alderman Grade of the Third ward also participated in the argument, claiming that such an attack on McGilgan or his management of the city beach should be made only when McGilgan was able to explain the matter and defend himself. No action was taken, but the debate continued for a short time after the meeting was adjourned.

Want Street Extended
A number of Fifth-st property owners urged extension of Fifth-st, east to London-st, and the construction of concrete sidewalks on both sides of the thoroughfare. Mayor Remmel suggested that an inspection of the grounds be made by city officials, referred the matter to the street committee and city attorney, and further action on the project may be taken at the adjourned session Thursday evening. About a dozen property owners appeared at the meeting.

The proposed alley, north of Main-st, frequently discussed by the common council for several years, again was brought before the aldermen. In order to secure definite action, Alderman Kelly moved that the city attorney prepare a resolution to start condemnation proceedings on property necessary for the thoroughfare, and additional discussion of the project is expected at an early meeting. Previous attempts to construct the proposed alley have met with opposition from some of the property owners, it has been revealed.

Would Build Siding
Action on a petition for a permit to cross Tayco-st with another railroad siding, submitted by the Menasha Products Co. was delayed until the adjourned session Thursday.

Construction of a large warehouse is planned by company officials, but before action on the petition is taken, the committee of the whole will inspect the site of the proposed track to secure data on its probable interference with pedestrian traffic.

The inspection, suggested by Alderman Grade, will be conducted early Thursday evening, it is expected.

That the probable cost of a curb and gutter on Kaukauna-st, from Main-st to Lugh-st, would be $1,185, was revealed in a report by the city engineer. The street improvement is sought by owners of abutting property, and further action may be taken within a few weeks. A number of deeds for property on Oak-st, necessary for improvement of the thoroughfare, were received.

Accept Land For Dump
A communication from D. G. Turner, offering property on the end of Keyes-st for use as a city dump, was accepted. The owner reserved the right to rescind the privilege at his own option. A petition from the Quarrie Products Co. seeking water, light, and sewer facilities for a residence on Ninth-st, in the town of Menasha, was received, but action delayed on recommendation of the street committee.

A report of the quarterly audit of city finances, made by C. A. Seifert, Waukesha, was read, and ordered placed on file. The report expressed appreciation for the cooperation of city officials, and suggested that measures be taken to protect the city treasurer whenever payment of taxes is made by check. The auditor suggested that the checks be certified, or that credit be withheld for three days.

The city attorney was ordered to communicate with railroad officials relative to necessary repairs on the Tayco and Racine-st crossings.

A $57.40 damage claim, filed by the Wheeler Transfer Co. based on a Tayco-st accident July 19, also was referred to the city attorney.

Let's Buy It!

Our Readers are Constantly Deciding to Buy Something Advertised in this Newspaper

Our readers are always buying something. They never stop buying. They hold family buying conferences. They plan, they compare, they talk among themselves about buying this or that, they talk about cost, about quality and style. Buying, with our readers, never reaches a "stand still." Their wants are never completely filled.

They spend more money in a year than all of our banks take in on deposit. Their buying power is tremendous. It's the biggest factor in the community.

Their daily purchases consist of nearly everything under the sun, shoes, clothing, dresses, hats, groceries, fruits, jewelry, hardware, tires, automobiles, luxuries and necessities. Nothing escapes their buying.

And they are good buyers too, — they shop around considerably—the largest market in which they do the most shopping is the advertising columns of this paper—they "shop" the advertisements in this paper from page 1 through to the back—not a page, not an advertisement misses their searching eyes—time and experience has taught them it's economy to "shop" from the advertisements.

Experience is always a good teacher, and it has taught our readers that besides being thrifty in reading the advertisements, it is a time saver as well. They shop first in this newspaper, making a list of their wants, then, list in hand, go direct to the store, saving trouble and worry of running from one store to another hunting their wants.

They look upon the advertisements in this newspaper as a service rendered and read them as thoroughly as the news.

Mr. Merchant, you can talk to the biggest buying power in this community every day. You can talk to them in the quiet of their home, you can talk to them at a time when they are in a buying mood, when they are themselves talking it over, discussing their want and what and where to buy. Your store can sit in on these buying conferences. They welcome you. They read every word in your advertisement about your store and your merchandise.

Invite them with a daily advertisement in this paper. Tell every day and you'll sell every day. The more you tell—the more you'll sell.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

COUNCIL MAY CUT SALARIES OF OFFICIALS

Finance Committee Points Out That Saving for Year Would Be $2,500

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—Discussion of the reduction of wages of city employees occupied the spotlight at the council meeting Tuesday evening. While the finance committee did not have its resolution pertaining to salaries complete, enough was presented to cause considerable discussion. The resolution suggested that the library appropriation for books be cut to $800. In addition, an extra $100 would be sliced off of the regular running expenses. An appropriation for books now reaches $1,100. Besides this, the position of an assistant librarian, amounting to $400, would be abolished. The mayor's salary was to be cut from $60 to $50 per month. The city attorney's salary of $31.65 would be cut to $25 per month, and the city physician's salary of $40 would be placed at $35 per month.

Other reductions suggested included the salary of the city nurse who would receive a 10 per cent cut, and the aldermen, who receive $15 per month, would receive a cut of $3. As part of the city's campaign to lower expenses, the band appropriation was slated for a reduction of $400. These reductions would go into effect Sept. 1. On Oct. 1 the resolution called for slicing the salaries of firemen 10 per cent. This matter, however, is simply a recommendation of the finance committee, and would be in the hands of the police and fire commission for final action.

These savings, if put into effect, will amount to about $2,500 a year. Other departments also would be expected to cooperate in wage reductions, and to practise whatever economies possible in lowering expenses.

Aldermen Ludwig and Thomas stated their belief that salaries of firemen should not be cut, while Aldermen Lipke and Rasmussen desired that the resolution be temporarily tabled until more data could be secured. Mayor Wendlandt thought that the matter should be disposed of immediately, stating that funds will have to be raised from some source, there will be no check fund to help out as in the past year.

Mayor For Decrease
Mr. Wendlandt stated it was his belief that unpaid taxes would show a decided increase over last year, and that the unemployment situation would take more of the city's finances than at any time in the past. In view of this, salary cuts seemed to be the only remedy, he pointed out.

Alderman Milo Smith stated that if wage reductions were made effective that these should only be applicable for one year. Alderman Meating raised the legal side of wage and salary reduction, pointing out that this change could be put into effect before Feb. 1, 1932. This he said applied only to salaries of officers. Mayor Wendlandt replied that cuts would be voluntary until Feb. 1.

Extreme hesitancy was shown by the aldermen in making a motion to adopt the wage cut resolution. On motion of Alderman Thomas it was held over until the next meeting. It is believed that at this time the wages of every department which are to undergo reductions will be incorporated into one resolution to be presented by the finance committee.

Fire Chief Clifford Dean was emphatic in his statement that the firemen should be kept at their present wage scale, which he said is about $200 annually for each man. Anthony Herres, of the department, also stated that the firemen at present are spending more time and labor than ever before to keep city fire losses at a minimum. He pointed out the fact that firemen formerly sent to the firemen's school with expenses paid this year went on their own expense to endeavor to save on fire water and lighting service, which in the past has been extended to various organizations. On motion of Alderman Schmaltz and Ludwig it was decided that in the future no organization or celebration of any kind would be given free water or light service.

REILLY REVIEWS ECONOMIC SLUMP AT CLUB MEETING

No Agreement Seen on Possible Solution, Congressman Points Out

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—"The Present Industrial Situation" was the subject of a talk by Congressman M. K. Reilly of Fond du Lac at a joint meeting of Lions and Rotary clubs last night. "While everyone is asking when the depression will end," said Mr. Reilly, "the paramount point stands out that no two groups agree on. That is how to get out of the depression."

He declared that with one-sixteenth of the world's population, we produce one-third of the world's materials. Still, for the past two years, we have been in the midst of a depression. "It is in times of stress and panic," he said, "that Russia can use our depression as an example."

The only redeeming feature the speaker could see in our periodic panics was that the United States has continued to go ahead. Mr. Reilly said that he believes our manner of living, in a measure due to our increased wage scale, would in itself prolong the reestablishment of our financial equilibrium.

"That the stock market blowup was reasonable for the present hard times," Mr. Reilly confirmed, saying that he believed that in the future laws should be written to curb such repetitions. He said he is in accord with the views of prominent bankers who believe that no one should buy on a margin unless they are worth at least $10,000.

Another view presented was that the stock market should be incorporated by the government, which would stop the watering of stocks, and legislation alone would prevent this present condition. Mr. Reilly brought out the fact that the market crash was not only injurious to the labor but everybody. He expressed a wish that members of all service clubs and civic organizations might expend as much time at exercising their legislative privileges as they do for furthering the welfare of their individual orders. He deplored the death of thinkers and the lassitude of the majority of the country's voters. Unless, he concluded, the people take the interest in their government necessary to its welfare, our individualistic system of government will be challenged by the Russian communistic and the Mussolini systems.

It is believed that at this time the wages of every department which are to undergo reductions will be incorporated into one resolution to be presented by the finance committee.

CUCUMBER HARVEST HITS HIGH FIGURE

8,000 Lbs. Handled at Forest Junction Station Monday; Few First Grade

Forest Junction.—Deliveries of cucumbers at the local station of the Green Bay Food Co. have been attaining maximum proportions. Sixty-one growers are supplying the station, and approximately four ton brought in on Monday has been one of the record receipts. Accumulation of the cucumbers over Sunday accounted for this large figure for the opening of the week. Very few of the cucumbers are graded as number one, and only about 700 pounds are said to have been so classed in the 8,000 pounds handled on Monday. With practically no rainfall in this vicinity the entire summer, a few of the growers have been resorting to artificial watering of the crop, where water supplies were reasonably plentiful. The harvest opened the last week in July and will continue until the first frost, according to Joseph E. Schneider, foreman at the local station.

TWO LEADING RADIO HOURS
COMING BACK

Atwater Kent and March of Time Programs Will Be Resumed

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—Two of radio's biggest hits, the Atwater Kent hour and the March of Time program, will soon be back on the air.
Definite assurances to that effect were forthcoming from the sponsors today. The Atwater Kent program, featuring concert stars, will be resumed on the National Broadcasting Co. network late in September. The March of Time program, a dramatization of episodes in the current news, will be resumed on the Columbia Broadcasting system at a date to be announced.

There may be some chance in the character of the Atwater Kent program. But this has not been decided definitely. While some of the greatest stars of the concert and operatic stage have already been signed for appearances, there are plans afloat to vary the Sunday night entertainment with programs of the lighter sort. Exactly what form those programs will take has not yet been disclosed.

When the Atwater Kent Sunday night period was indefinitely suspended last June, deep feeling was stirred among certain elements in the radio audience, for this is the oldest sponsored program that has consistently offered the higher forms of musical art on the air. There is hardly a concert artist of note who has not appeared in the program, which also featured Josef Pasternak's orchestra. One of the pioneer broadcast features, it went off the air this summer for the first time in some six years, purely as a measure of economy.

Of an entirely different nature is the March of Time program, which will have a coast to coast Columbia network when it resumes. News events of the week are dramatized, the characters using the exact words of the principals whenever possible.
Six different episodes are featured in the half hour period, and an effort is made to keep as close to the news as possible. Often the script has been changed within an hour of the broadcast.

The March of Time and Atwater Kent programs were among the group of network features voted as being the finest types of commercial radio programs by the Newspaper-Radio Editors association in their recent poll.

Not only these two hits but many another shining feature will be offered on the radio, via both the networks and individual stations, this fall and winter. Politics will shortly command the center of the stage, and partisan speeches may be expected to herald the 1932 presidential campaign. As in 1928, radio will play a leading role in carrying the issues and the events to the masses.

FLASHES OF LIFE
Dublin—The sons of de Valera, Republican leader, excel in science and languages. Vivian has won a science scholarship at the national university. Another son has taken prizes for German and Brian has taken a prize for experimental science.

Canberra—Australian horse breeders have found an outlet for their animals. Thousands of mounts are being sent to India for the cavalry.
The market for horses has been so poor that ranchers have been obliged to destroy numbers of fine animals or let them run wild.

London—Snails going 100 miles an hour! An increasing demand for French edible snails for English tables is being met by daily air shipments from Paris. French snails which are fed on vine leaves and lettuce have a more delicate flavor than the English variety.

New York—Chicago is not so bad,
it seems. "Forty years of Scotland Yard," written by Frederick Porter
Wensley, long chief constable, (Doubleday, Doran and Company) says New York, Paris, London and every large city are infested by gangs of gangsters who employ strikingly similar methods of terrorism.

SAYS CRITICS OF DEPORTATION PLAN ARE ONLY RADICALS

Secretary Doak, However, Overlooks Report of Wickersham Group

Washington—The most obvious practical effect of the Wickersham report on deportations is to make it harder for Secretary of Labor William Nuckles Doak to brand all critics of his immigration tactics as bolshheviks and underminers of our glorious institutions.

The members of the Wickersham commission are not bolshheviks, anarchists or underminers and yet they adopt conclusions that aliens are often treated unconstitutionally, tyrannically and oppressively.
Thus the report becomes a sort of a text book for those who are continually protesting some of the allegedly high-handed and hard-hearted acts of the immigration service. It says that the abuses are chargeable to the system rather than the Department of Labor and that inspectors shouldn't be expected to act satisfactorily as investigators and judges at the same time. But it says enough other things so that Doak is in something of an indignant rage. Doak has been staging a well hatched deportation drive and has maintained that only dangerous characters objected to any aspects of it. Both the commission and Reuben Oppenheimer, who wrote the conclusions if adopted, urged strict enforcement of deportation laws, but they also found some defects in the picture.

Extraordinary powers of the immigration officers are clearly revealed. An inspector apparently can grab anyone and rush him off as a suspected alien. He can jail suspects without a warrant, searching them and their effects. He can make wholesale raids anywhere, holding a thousand persons at a time until they prove their right to freedom. He can deny prisoners counsel at their preliminary examinations.
Comparing methods of cross examination with the Inquisition, Oppenheimer says: "It is doubtful if anywhere in the entire system of Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence are government officials given similar unfettered rights of private inquiry, or is the exercise of governmental power more often characterized by violations of fairness and decency."

Anonymous letters are one of the chief sources of information relied upon to apprehend aliens. They are often written by personal enemies and sometimes even by members of the suspect's own family who want to get rid of him. Many aliens charged with their own apprehension, give the names of others who are subject to deportation, either when arrested or by writing back from the country where they are detained. Some immigration inspectors use stool pigeons at strategic points, such as large factories employing many aliens.

Inspectors often ask many questions about the suspect's history when such matters have nothing to do with the case. In a large portion of the question can "only be described as inquisitorial" and "in such cases the only limit of the scope of the examination are the limits of the examiner's curiosity."
Aliens frequently marry Americans. About nine percent of the aliens deported in cases studied by Oppenheimer had an American husband, wife or child, so it is estimated that in 1929 more than 1500 Americans were affected by deportations.
Records don't show in how many cases the alien couldn't take his wife or her family along, but they frequently protested that it was impossible. Oppenheimer says: "What happens to the families left in America when the heads are deported does not appear."

Although Doak hates communists with patriotic fervor, Russia is the one country to which we can't deport people unless she is willing to accept them. There are hundreds of Russians against whom deportation warrants have been issued but who remain in the country as long as we have no diplomatic relations with the Soviet government. They are out on bail, detained at public expense or at large. Only in rare cases does Russia consent to receive a deportee.

Talking Through Nose Is Common Fault Of Actors

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Hollywood—(CPA)—Talking through the nose and saying laff instead of laugh are the most widespread faults among Hollywood actors, according to Samuel Kayser of New York who is both a dramatic coach and an instructor in the art of speech. The third more widespread fault is holding on to the letter "R" till it grows at 'em.

The instructor, who at one time or another has taken in charge the speaking voices of Ann Harding, Frederic March, Dolores Del Rio,
Billie Dove, Otto Kahn, Burton Holmes, Thomas Meighan, and Charlotte Greenwood, is at present lecturing around Hollywood to some of the results of his teaching. Also he is upon occasion shaking his grizzled head over the example set by the talking screen in the matter of nasals, laffs, and r's. Among his pupils, by the way, have been not only actors but likewise bankers and politicians.

He isn't an elocutionist. He is more a psychoanalyst. "The voice," Kayser explained today, "is the sound transom of a person's character. In some cases, it is a poor ally; it must be made to fit its owner."
Take Indirect Method
"But to do this you must take an indirect method. If you point out a fault, it is like telling a child not to put beans up his nose. Billie Dove, for example, is a retiring sort of girl. You do not say to her:
'Don't be bashful! No, you speak to her in a breezy manner and subconsciously she responds.
'Miss Del Rio is deeply serious.

ENGLISH MOTORISTS
PAY HIGHEST TAXES

London—Motorists of Great Britain bear the heaviest tax burden of any auto drivers in the world. Still there is a rumor that new burdens will be placed on these persecuted individuals in the new budget.

In comparison with taxes paid by motorists of other countries, English drivers pay almost twice as much as their nearest brothers, the French.
The annual English tax runs about $140 a year. The tax in France is about $80; Italy, $75; Germany, $65; Canada, $30, and the United States, $20.

In direct contrast with motorists in the United States, English car owners pay five times as much tax as New York motorists and six times as much as California motorists.
England's method of levying tax on the motorist is charged at the high rate of 15 per horsepower, and is over one-tenth horsepower ranks as a full unit, and is charged $5 extra.

To top off this situation, the English motorist finds that, instead of the majority of his tax returns going into good roads, it goes to relieve other taxpayers. It is estimated that 55 per cent of the tax returns is used in this manner.

New York-Italian fliers hope to obtain seven miles a minute from a new type of racing plane in which twin propellers are driven by motors developing 3,000 horsepower. Col.
Mario de Bernardi, Italian racing ace, who arrived here, told about the new plane being built for the Schneider cup races.

An English shepherd dog owned by Harry Moore of Redmond, Ore., produced 51 pups in four litters of 10, 12, 14 and 15.

The man whose business touches every budget in advertising

It is evening, and under the station lights, a man with a Gladstone bag moves out toward a limited train.

Tomorrow the records, the invoices, every document and report in a great publisher's circulation office will be opened to him. Each executive, each press foreman, every newspaper boy on the streets is instructed by the publisher to give this man every bit of information he can.

The man from the Audit Bureau of Circulations!

He is employed jointly by publishers and advertisers. Commissioned by them to go into every detail of circulation—how great it is, where it is, how it is obtained.

Over the continent, more than sixty of these trained auditors are on the road.
In almost every publication office of importance in the United States and Canada they check, compare, analyze the facts.

Publishers want this work done so that they and their competitors will all be on the same basis. Advertisers need it so that their comparison of media may be all on the same basis—so that they may know what their dollars buy.

What is your share, as an advertiser, in directing these auditors of the A. B. C.?
Are you supporting, helping to supervise these activities which help to guard your budget?

Advertisers are urged to join the distinguished group of advertisers, agencies and publishers who make up the Audit Bureau of Circulations, and who through co-operation have taken the guesswork out of circulation buying. Write today for full facts about Bureau membership.

Certain Acid Fruits Cause Of Hives, Society Warns

Madison—Hives, from which many people have been suffering this summer, is really not a disease but a symptom of an underlying cause which practically is a poison. This may be caused from eating certain acid fruits. It comes without warning to a person who is apparently well.

The educational Committee of the Wisconsin Medical Society in a bulletin issued today recommends that people bathe the afflicted parts with a solution of baking soda. Sprays of camphor may be used for hives caused by insect bites.
"At the present time physicians have certain tests applicable to the skin which may determine the nature of the foreign substance causing the trouble," declares the bulletin. "If there is any question about the cause, or if one does not obtain prompt relief from these simple domestic remedies, the family physician should be consulted."

"The causes of hives are many. It usually occurs from some foreign substance introduced into the circulation. The majority of cases come from food substances absorbed from the digestive tract, and which do not agree with the patient, or against which the system rebels because of a personal idiosyncrasy."
"Many persons, for example, are said to have a special susceptibility to hives upon taking certain drugs or some food-stuff like strawberries or shellfish. If one has repeated attacks of hives following eating one particular kind of food, the diagnosis is easy as to what caused the attack.

Many times, however, the cause is not easy to discover, for there are individuals who react to such common foods as wheat, eggs, cakes, custards, etc. People, therefore, who are subject to frequent attacks should recall to mind food articles consumed prior to an attack in order that they may eventually determine the cause by exclusion.

"Sometimes external irritants produce hives, and it is occasionally due to specific disease conditions in

Chapter 25
WHAT DOES KIRK KNOW?

WHEN Clowry took an car in hand the native said, "You'd better stand. It's hard to moshpere of Steve's place. Moon of Delight . . . Divitt's—she could n't put the thoughts aside.

But someone was breaking into them. It was Emmy Jean, who had come to Adrian's party with young Berry. She was leaning toward Juanita, her earrings swinging each side her small pale face. She had light blue eyes that some clear green like aquamarines. Juanita found herself wondering what the world must look like through such clear eyes.

"Isn't Phyllis Carver awful," said Emmy Jean, crinkling her lashes, "bringing up the Moon before Naida Preston and Dick? Naida is jealous as the devil of the Moon, and Dick Preston is jealous of Eric Ledbetter. Dick's been drinking himself crazy ever since Naida got back. He hasn't been too much with her arms here tonight.

"Everybody knows how Eric feels about Naida. And Naida . . . Well, no woman could resist Eric. The way he spends money, you know. And then he's been everywhere, and speaks all sorts of languages, and had a harem in Turkey, and throws such gay parties.

"You see," setting down to her job of enlightening Juanita—"You see, Eric left one day and Naida the next. Naida's been in Mexico. And everybody knows where Eric is. But now that Dick knows Eric's away, nothing will convince him they weren't together. I think Eric was with the Moon . . . You must see her when you go back. It's interesting to see women like that. . . . Phyllis is awful to Naida. Because Dick was engaged to her—to Phyllis—before Naida broke it up. Phyllis would ram that big poker into Naida if she dared. I think myself.

"Dance with you, Berry? Sure. "Sure me, Juanita."

"Kirk came back, said to Juanita, "Dance once with Adrian so that you can dance with me. I've something to tell you."

She obeyed almost automatically. "I'll dance with you now," she said to Adrian on his return.

Bobby Cranshaw cut in on Adrian and Kirk cut in on Bobby. Kirk danced with Juanita to the door, opened it. A voice called, "Look out, Lochinvar! You're with get wet!" It was Dick Preston, dancing with the marquessa. The marquessa did not even look at them. Kirk saw her draw from Dick's arm and begin to dance alone. In her vivid orange dress flinging arms above her head, catching at her skirts, she looked like some brightly painted automaton.

Kirk guided Juanita to the veranda rail. He drew her against him. "Now breathe a little," he said. "Was the party threatening to get too wild?"

Kirk did not answer, but her eyes moved to him with a half frightened, half questioning look. "You aren't used to wild parties, are you, Juanita? . . . I wonder why that makes me want to fight somebody for you. This one's not going to be anything. I know what they've got in there—in the way of bottles, I mean."

"Let's take a car and ride away somewhere," Juanita begged.

"Why, of course," Kirk said with a gleam at the sky.

They took Dick Preston's coupe. "Dick won't care," said Kirk. There was a riding crop in the car, and a green cape.

"Phyllis! He came with Phyllis," said Kirk musingly, as they turned into the road. "Wonder who brought Naida. Trigger, I reckon. . . . You believe in people having dates with folks besides their husbands? It makes me nervous to think about it. You won't treat me that way, will you, Juanita?" Huckleberry manured banter, as they took the road between the angry black sea and the still, black woods. Kirk laid his hand over Juanita's smiling into her face.

"Will you, Juanita?"

Big drops suddenly pelted the glass about them. Through the dark they could see the black waves spitting forth. Kirk stopped the car, drew Juanita against his side.

"Quit watching the lightning," he said. "You ought to be afraid."

"I love storms," she whimpered, as the thunder crashed above the boom of the sea. All at once to Kirk she seemed a part of it. He realized that he had indeed a small bit of the storm in the car with him, crushed against his side. She was she—she smiled at the fancy—a thing bred in the storm, driven by it, sheltered here for a moment, presently to fly on.

"Paloma," he said softly, "Ta paloma."

She laid her other hand over his. "Why do you call me that? Do you know what it means?"

"Do you doubt my Spanish?" he enquired. "Paloma means dove. For me it means anything beautiful with wings. Doves and angels and you."

"With wings?"

"You have wings, Juanita. Maybe not doves or angels, but I know you are plotting—right now to use them."

She shook her head, still in the circle of his arm. She looked down at his hand between both of hers. The wings were coming hard now.

Juanita's voice was low. "Do you believe—the things they said about that girl?"

"What girl?" he asked.

"The one in Divitt's Parlors."

Kirk laughed, tightening his arm. "Do I believe? What difference does it make?"

"Do you?"

"Why, I never thought about it." Then suddenly, "Was that what was the matter with you—what they said about the Moon?"

"The men did not deny—that they knew her—intimately."

"That was horrid of them."

She lifted her face, not looking at him. "You mean that, even though it was true, they should have denied. You believe it was true."

"But if it is, what does one expect of a girl in that place?" Kirk said, not at all desirous of discussing other women with Juanita, but she had been unwillingly, Juanita said.

"She may at that," he agreed, but she felt the smile that his words came through.

"You denied," she said hotly.

"And now—now you are as bad as the rest."

"I denied because she has hardly looked at me, or I at her," Kirk forced into seriousness, replied.

"You aren't yourself," Juanita. "She lives there with that gang, is taking Lochester to her room any time she may be there a war over? Unwillingly—maybe—at the start. All of them have fantastic tales about how they began. . . . But why should she stay, if she's unwilling? The place has doors. I won't say I haven't thought about her—"

"Not as you suppose," quickly.

"She has no attraction for me. But I've wondered—rather curiously—whether it's Divitt's clever advice, or the use of her own gifts, or the seduction of that girl Divitt's Parlors."

"And you didn't like her?" Juanita's voice was grave.

"Not at all." Now he knew the reason for her questioning. Bless his heart! "I never liked anything but you. I never loved anything but you."

"That's it—smile. But it's true."

"You never had a sweetheart?"

"Plenty."

"Then you've been in love."

"Probably."

"But you said—"

"I never had never loved any one but you. It's true."

"I'd rather you were in love with me."

"I am. If you love a girl you're in love with her. But if you're merely in love with her you don't always love her."

She was smiling still. Kirk held her close and kissed her until he knew she had forgotten all the jealous doubt.

At last he said, "Tell me what you saw in the library."

She answered in a low voice. "Not now. I can never tell you now."

"All right. You don't need to know it already."

"What do you know?"

The second game in the series to decide the Industrial softball champion of Appleton, will be played at 5:30 tonight at Brandt park. The first game of the series was played Monday night with the National league team, the August Brandts, winning the decision from the American league entry, the Fox River Paper company.

Last night the Co. D and Woolen Mills teams clashed in another of the inter league games. The teams finished in second place. The Guards won the decision by the one sided score of 7 and 2 thanks to some sensational hitting by Wally Klein. Klein was in raze form last night and with good support from his mates set the Woolens back without any resemblance of a bit until after the seventh inning. In the eighth, he was touched for two runs. The Woolens got but two hits off Klein during the entire fracas.

The Guards scored first in the opening inning when Johnny Bauers, first man to bat socked a home run. In the fourth inning the Guards scored two more runs and in the sixth scored three. The last run came in the eighth inning. The guards got nine hits during the game. The Woolens had seven errors and the Co. D team one. Klein whiffed 13 batters while on the mound and Schwandt of the Woolens fanned one. Bauers caught for the Guards and Herb for the Woolens. The Guardsmen now have issued a challenge to the Fox River Paper company for a game to be played any time regardless of whether the Papermakers win or lose in the city series.

Announcement has been made that the game between the Printers and Power company over which there has been a lot of arguing and question of umpire's authority and a few other things, will be played over. The game will be played either Friday night or Monday.

Brooklyn Club Easy Prey For St. Louis Cardinals

BY JOHN B. FOSTER
Copyright, 1931

NEW YORK — (CPA) — This is the tale of what St. Louis has done to the Brooklyn club to stave off the Flatbush menace. Flatbush is the nom de diamond for the Brooklyn ball ground. When the Brooklyn are winning it is Ebbsville Flatbush. When they are losing it is Brooklyn Flatbush.

Brooklyn and St. Louis split even on the 1929 season, but not until the Cardinals had split the skull of the Brooklyn club, metaphorically speaking, on that name.
Brooklyn seemed to be quite a championship outfit last year. The city seethed with baseball enthusiasm and frantic fans ran wild around the fences because they couldn't get inside.
On Sept. 19, 1929, St. Louis landed in Brooklyn when the excitement was so great that it broke in waves on the peanut stands of Coney Island, and elsewhere and even Manhattan fans crossed the river to see the sport. St. Louis won a ten inning game, 1-0. Then the Cards took the next two, 5-3 and 4-3.
Pittsburgh followed St. Louis and won twice in succession and then along came New York and won by that time Brooklyn was comatose. "Remember 1929?"

BILLY AND JIMMY READY FOR RUBBER BATTLE OF CAREERS

Petrolle and McLarnin Entertain at Garden Thursday Night

NEW YORK — (CP) — Fighters who fight are a rather scarce article in this day and age but boxing followers will have a chance to see two of that ilk in the same ring at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night when Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle square off against one another for the third time in eight months.

McLarnin long has been one of the best drawing cards in the business while Petrolle's sensational comeback after a year's retirement has caught the public fancy.
The wolf has absolutely no show around Petrolle's door for he is reputed to be worth something like $100,000. He fights because he likes to and that characteristic has been a bit disconcerting to some of his rivals in the past.

McLarnin, in his many engagements here, has fought only one really bad fight—a return match with Ray Miller. The rest of the time ending Jimmy has been content to throw leather from first to last although it must be admitted he showed considerable respect for Petrolle's punching prowess in their last meeting.

But he hardly could be blamed for that. He took the worst beating he ever suffered from "Fargo Billy" when they met for the first time in the Garden last November. Petrolle, with that deadly left hook that last stopped Jumbo Suarez's winning streak, handed McLarnin a sound drubbing and twice had him on the verge of a knockout.

A few months later they clashed again. This time McLarnin fought a carefully planned battle. Sticking to his left hand almost exclusively, Jimmy stopped Petrolle's mad rushes to close quarters and easily outpointed him. Jimmy never gave Billy a chance to get started, stabbing him off with jabbing lefts and coming over an occasional right when the occasion presented itself.

Thursday's battle is slated for ten rounds but both have issued warlike statements to the effect that it will be remarkable if the duel goes half that distance.

Larsen's hopes of climbing closer to the pace-setting Greenville club in the County league were blasted when they lost the second game of a double header, 11 to 6, to Claireville Sunday.

They won the first contest 14 to 0, however, so had an even break for the day. The second game went only five innings.
Greenville launched its first place rating with a 6 to 4 win over Dale. The two last place clubs, Butte des Morts and Menasha, scored a number of runs with the former finally winning, 15 to 8.

MARK CATLIN LOSES AT STATE NET MEET

Mark Catlin, Jr., Appleton's only entrant in the state tennis tournament at Milwaukee was eliminated from further play yesterday when he was defeated by Scott Kensing, Big Ten tennis champ, 6-6 and 6-4. Monday Catlin defeated Rat Surby of Milwaukee, 8-6, 9-7, 6-1.

BOB GROVE MAY EQUAL A. L. PITCHING MARK

Chicago — (CP) — Robert Messing, the world champion Athletics' great left-hander, today was down to face the White Sox in an effort to equal the American league record of 15 straight pitching victories.

Of Grove's 24 triumphs this season, the last 15 have come in a row, and another victory would tie the record set in 1922 by Joe Wood of Boston, and equaled the same season by Walter Johnson of Washington.

The modern major league record is 12 straight by Rube Marquard of the New York Giants, another south paw, in 1912.

Valley League Gossip

NOTHING less than an earthquake can keep Kaukauna away from the pennant in the Valley league. Lamers and Co. put the shills under Green Bay, 10 to 5 and they have three games advantage over the Wisconsin Rapids nine.

Appleton's hopes for the consolation went up in smoke when the Rapids turned back the Collegians 8 to 2. Len Smith's tribe was hot the first half of the race but they flopped badly during the third quarter.

The race for the cellar championship is all over as Kimberly had things pretty much their own in the Shawano game, copping the verdict.

'DOCTORED' BALLS?

Two baseballs, bearing several deep scratches on the cover, apparently made by emery cloth, are in the possession of G. W. Calhoun, secretary of the Green Bay baseball club. The two balls were used in the Green Bay-Kaukauna game and confiscated to present at the next Valley league meeting for evidence to substantiate the charges that Michaelson, Kaukauna hurler, used "doctored" balls on several occasions. As no emery cloth could be found in the Michaelson's glove or person during the game, it is the belief of several Green Bay players that one of the Kaukauna infielders carried the cloth and rubbed the ball with it as it was thrown to him.

Phil Hoffman has dropped the leadership of the Shawano ball club on the field. The wolves have been after the deputy sheriff since early in June and it is a wonder he held on to his post as long as he did.

When the moguls gather in Green Bay on Sept. 25 to award the most valuable prize they will have a job on their hands as there are a half dozen players in the loop who are right in line for the much sought award.

Signs of depression were not much in evidence around the gate at the Kaukauna-Green Bay game as the paid admission, including the season tickets topped the thousand mark. Kaukauna had several hundred rooters present.

Len Smith, the Appleton manager, is setting the pace for Valley league swatmen with an average of .67. The veteran outfielder has a big margin on the other clouters. In the last two games, Smith has got five hits.

Shorty Zuidmiller missed his first game in three years for Green Bay last Sunday when he was forced to the sidelines with an injured arm. Zuidmiller is employed by a bottling plant and cut his arm while working.

Sonny Tornow got back in the game for Appleton by doing a turn in the right garden after Van Wyck was removed. Tornow's reappearance must have stirred up Donagan, the Collegian second sacker, because he got two hits.

Green Bay's pitching went haywire in the Kaukauna game. The Electric tribe got to Molenda for five runs in the second off Brindza, who replaced the Packer footballer was touched up frequently in the closing stanzas.

Reports that Clarence Pocan, Kimberly's manager and pitcher, was out of the game for the remainder of the season with an injury proved unfounded as he took the mound against Shawano and came through with an easy win.

Michaelson, the Kaukauna slasher, hit one on the nose in the Green Bay game that is probably going yet. It cleared the deep center field by 20 feet. When "Mike" connects, the ball sure does get quite a ride.

Sunday, Sept. 6 is an open date in the league and clubs without postponed games are casting around for suitable attractions. It is quite possible that Two Rivers and Green Bay will tangle in a pre-Labor Day contest.

Records show that Kaukauna is close to the league record for winning streaks. Lamers' tribe have won nine straight. Several years ago when Lamers was managing Kimberly, the Paper makers bunched ten victories.

Wallie Simmons, brother of the famous Al, who has been third basing for the Boys, hasn't found the Valley league pitching so much to his liking in the past two games as he has gone without hits in ten trips to the plate.

The headline Valley league game on Sunday will be played between Appleton at Kaukauna at the Electric City. Green Bay will sing its swan song at Kimberly while Wisconsin Rapids is billed for appearance in Shawano.

PURE MILKS HUMBLE HOLLANDTOWN, 6 TO 5

With Bill Peotter leading the way and getting four hits in five times at the rubber, the Pure Milk baseball team won another Badger league game Sunday defeating Hollandtown, 6 and 5. The Appleton club counted 19 hits and Hollandtown 7.

Next Sunday the Milks go to Forest Junction where they hope to record another easy win.

LOU GEHRIG PLAYS IN 1,000TH GAME; YANKS LOSE, 5-4

Boston Braves Stage Comeback and Defeat Chicago Cubs, 3 and 2

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

HENRY Louis Gehrig has played in 1,000 consecutive games for the Yanks and has not given a sign of weakening.
Only two players in the major leagues ever have beaten that mark. Everett Scott took part in 1,307 games for the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees from 1916 to 1925 and Joe Sewell, now a Yank, played 1,103 for Cleveland. About the time Scott's record was ending, Gehrig became New York's regular first baseman. He began in June, 1931, won numerous honors as a star batter, as Babe Ruth's leading home run rival, and in 1927 as the most valuable player to his club.

Fails To Get Hit
Gehrig took part in his 1,000th game yesterday, his one hundred and fourteenth of the current season without adding anything to his batting laurels. He failed to get a hit in five attempts against Earl Whitehill and Tom Bridges of Detroit and after eleven innings saw his team go down to a 5-4 defeat before the last place team of the American league. It was a nip-and-tuck contest in which a home run by Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, put the New Yorkers ahead in the ninth only to have the Tigers tie the count and win out two innings later when Bridges singled and Charley Gehrig brought him in with a double off Ruffing's successor, Vernon Gomez.

Only one other American game was played yesterday and in it the St. Louis Browns turned on Washington's Senators. After three straight defeats and pulled out a 1 to 2 triumph. The Browns bunched their hits off Bump Hadley for three runs in the third, a double by Red Kress bringing in the deciding counters.

The Boston Braves likewise made a comeback to win one of the National league's two games. After dropping four straight to the Chicago Cubs, they staged a ninth inning rally behind the fine pitching of Fred Frankhouse and downed Chicago 3 to 2. Frankhouse, pitching his first full game since a recent operation, held the Cubs to five hits. The deciding run came when Meranville doubled, reached third on an error and scored on Worthington's single.

Klein Gets 2 Homers
The Pittsburgh Pirates, although they lost their series to the Phillies, threatened Boston's hold on fifth place when they pounded out a 14 to 4 triumph in the final game. Chuck Klein hit his twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth home runs of the season for Philadelphia but his clouts had little effect against Pittsburgh's 18 hit attack. Paul Waner led the drive with five singles in six trips to the plate.

The other teams in both major leagues had an open date.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

New York—Earl Mastro, Chicago, outpooled Kid Francis, Italy (10); Mike Gelb, Hungary, outpooled Phil Zwick, Cleveland (8); Lew Feldman, New York, outpooled Johnny Pena, Spain (8); Archie Bell, Brooklyn, and Newbury Brown, Los Angeles, drew (8).

Toronto—Charlie Belanger, Winnipeg, knocked out K. O. White, Chicago (2).

St. Louis—Dave Knost, St. Louis, outpooled Benny Touchstone, Detroit (10); Lewpape decision; Alben Matthews, St. Louis, stopped Davey Telero, Cuba (5).

Lynchburg, Va.—Jack Schweitzer, New York, and Charlie Jacobs, Hopewell, Va., drew (8).

Indianapolis—Jackie Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., knocked out Marty McHale, Cleveland (2); Eddie Kopy, Detroit, outpooled Sidney Ostern, Cleveland (6).

Calling the Strikes

New York — (CPA) — The White Sox recalled Bob Weiland from Louisville. He didn't do a thing after that but beat Washington out of two games in succession on the White Sox ground. Two defeats are bad enough any time, but Weiland rub'd it in at the wrong time. Everybody knows that the Athletics are making whoppers, but in some loyal fans a faint hope still existed for Washington until the Senators were smacked hard in Chicago.

Washington has lost six games in Chicago this year and to date the Athletics have lost but one.

FORESTERS HUMBLE DE MOLAYS 10 AND 8

Forester softball team of the Fraternal league defeated the DeMolay team last night 10 and 8 in a play off to decide which club should hold fourth place honors in the league. The two were tied at the end of the regular schedule. They played a game last week which ended in a 7 and 7 tie in the eighth when darkness halted the contest.

Last night the Foresters scored one in the first frame, four in the fourth, three in the sixth and ended with two in the seventh. For the DeMolays, one run was tallied in the first, two in the second, one in the fourth and four in the sixth.

APPLETON JUNIORS WIN 2 MORE GAMES

Beat Neenah Team 10 to 1 and Down Interlake Aces, 4 and 2

Benny Ruffing's Junior softball team chalked up two more games during the last few days, defeating the Neenah Columbia park team 10 and 1 Monday and the Interlake Aces 4 and 2 Tuesday. The youngsters, pick of softball talent among junior boys at the playgrounds, have won about ten games this season and lost but one.

Against the Neenah team the Appleton youngsters scored two runs in the first inning and then remained 10-0 until the fourth when two more were scored. One run came in the sixth and in the seventh the lid was blown off with five runs. The only Neenah run was chalked up in the fourth.

Mitchell and Manier worked for the Juniors.

The second win for the Juniors over the Interlake Aces saw Fred Kicks hurt great ball especially in the pitcher. He allowed the Interlakes one run in the first frame, one in the second and last in the fifth. The most men to face him in any one inning was four. Manier again did the catching.

The Stars picked up their runs one at a time in the second, third, fifth and sixth innings. They too had trouble connecting for hits but managed to make them good for runs.

Grishaber and Kirk were batteries for the Aces.

KLOEHN'S WHITEWASH SPILKER BAKERS, 4-0

The Kloeihn Oakland Pontiacs took Spilker Bakers to a beating to the tune of 4 to 0 Sunday morning at Wilson school. The batteries for Kloeihn were Van Wyke and Eggert for the Bakers, Lorenz and Shade.

Van Wyke pitching for the Oakland-Pontiacs struck out 12 men, issued 2 walks and allowed one hit, that in the sixth inning. The Oakland-Pontiacs collected six hits and one walk for four runs.

Slattery of the Kloeihn's was the bat star with three hits out of three trips to the plate. The Oakland-Pontiacs coined two runs in the second, one in the fifth and one in the sixth. Only two bakers reached third base.

Eggertsen was the fielding star making a nice running catch of a short outfield fly.

DELIGHTFUL REFRESHMENT

FUND VOTED TO HELP PAY FOR SEWER SURVEY

Common Council Rescinds Action of Former Meeting

Kaukauna—After a complete discussion of the benefits to Kaukauna of a survey to determine the cost of a proposed metropolitan sewer district for cities of the Fox river valley, a move to rescind the council's previous action of voting not to appropriate Kaukauna's share of the cost of the preliminary survey, was made by Alderman G. Smith, and supported unanimously by the council.

Mr. E. W. Fargo, in his explanation of the project, told the council that it was his belief that the survey would be beneficial in that it would give the city an idea of what it would cost to build its own plant, or to go in with the other cities in building one plant to dispose of the cities' sewage. He also told the council he believed the appropriation should be made.

Finally Alderman Smith moved that the council be placed on record as being favorable to appropriating the money for the survey when it was necessary. All of the aldermen approved the move.

That T. Chalkley Hatten, designer of the sewage disposal plant at Milwaukee, would assist in obtaining the necessary information in the survey, was the belief of Mayor Fargo.

Want Rails Covered

A resolution asking the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., and the Green Bay Traction Co., to start immediate operations to cover up the old street car rails on Lawe-st and Wisconsin-ave was adopted, six to four. Aldermen Ben Bell, George L. Smith, Bert Roberts, Frank Guertiz, W. J. Carnot and E. A. Brewster were in favor of the amendment covering the rails. Aldermen W. H. Cooper, William Gillen, O. M. Ludtke and J. Lummerding opposed the motion.

Aldermen Gillen, Cooper and Ludtke want the rails torn up. Alderman Cooper told the council that at a recent meeting of the North Road district committee, at which officials of both of the companies were present, plans for covering the tracks with the amesite were made. When two weeks had gone by and neither of the companies had notified the committee of any definite action, the city attorney was ordered to inform them of a change in plans, calling for removing the rails entirely. It is expected that work of the covering the rails will begin within a week and a half. The request of tearing up rails was defeated.

Want "Z" Paved

City Attorney J. Lefevre read a resolution asking the county highway committee to use the money which it has appropriated for paving highway 55 into the city on Crooks-ave to pave County trunk line Z as far as the money would permit. Mayor Fargo stated that the county committee was instrumental in obtaining the aid which is being given by the state highway commission. A copy of the resolution will be sent to the county body.

In connection with the paving on Crooks-ave into the city as far as Fourth-st, an attempt to widen the roadway to 26 feet is being made. The extra amount will be borne by the property owners along the street, and it is the belief of several of the aldermen that the work could be done more cheaply now. A meeting of the council with the property owners along Crooks-ave will be held as soon as plans for the undertaking are completed by F. M. Charlesworth, who will be instructed to draw up plans for the paving.

The move instructing the city engineer to draw plans for the paving was made by Alderman Smith with Alderman W. Cooper supporting the motion. A clause instructing the clerk to advise the meeting of the council with the property owners in regard to the paving also was included in Alderman Smith's move. It was carried.

Suggests Detour

Alderman Bert Roberts told the council that when the paving of Crooks-ave is begun a suitable detour to give fire protection will have to be made. He suggested the improvement of Main-ave, which includes an extension of the street and building of a culvert in a ravine on the street. After some discussion the council decided that the project should be looked over and the council will vote the spot before anything further is done on the detour.

Several bills were allowed. A claim for a driveway was submitted. Council members disagreed on the matter and a vote was taken after an explanation of the bill. Aldermen W. Cooper, William Gillen and G. L. Smith were in favor of allowing the bill, which was not allowed, with B. Bell, F. Guertiz, B. Roberts, J. Lummerding, O. M. Ludtke, W. J. Carnot and E. A. Brewster dissenting.

Improving the intersection of Highway 55, 41 and County trunk line J was held over until waivers have been given by the property owners. Plans call for a concrete junction at the point, and widening of the corner. The old concrete will have to be removed, along with some of the ground.

Mayor Fargo told the council that an extra burden of unemployed had been placed on the city with the removal of all repairing to the Chicago shops of the Chicago Northwestern Railway Co. Alderman W. Gillen moved that resolution be sent to the main offices of the Chicago Northwestern Railway Co. at Chicago to alleviate working conditions at the local shops, since the removal of all repair work of the company to the Chicago shops. A committee was appointed by Mayor Fargo to draw up a resolution to be sent to the company offices. City attorney Lefevre, Aldermen W. J. Carnot, and W. Cooper are members of the committee.

Put it on and forget about it. It doesn't show and you can't feel it—this Nemoflex combination which is so well suited to the average figure.

Its soft swami silk top confines the bust gently, its light boning over the diaphragm flattens out the stomach and assures graceful lines. Four garters hold the garment down in place and furnish ample hosiery support.

You will like the material—a firm brocaded cotton in combination with elastic inserts at the sides. Shoulder straps may be adjusted to different lengths. A thoroughly satisfactory garment for the woman who is neither slim nor stout, but average.
